HIS VIEWS ON REPUBLICAN GOVERNMENT.

LOUISVILLE, September 3, 1872.

ASSEMBLING OF THE CONVENTION.

The National Democratic Convention met to-day in the Common Pleas Court Room. Previous to and during the assembling of the delegates the Second Regiment National Band of Philadelphia played various airs. At about one o'clock Col. Duncan called the Convention to order. Rev. Dr. Pratt addressed the Throne of Grace in an eloquent prayer for concord and peace and freedom from sectional jealousy throughout the land.

COLONEL DUNCAN'S SPEECH.

Col. Duncan then spoke as follows:

Gentlemen of the Convention—It is my duty to call this assemblage to order. Its objects are well known, and require no explanation. We have been derisively called "bolters," "mercenaries," etc., by the editors and politicians who have sought an alliance with a faction of the radical party, and who have abandoned all the principles which have hitherto characterized our organization. It is not my province to cast reflections upon the motives of those leaders to whose wisdom and judgment the party unfortunately confided. Their action is invalid and void; it has no binding effect upon other individual members of the party, and it has already been repudiated by hundreds of thousands. No spirit of presumptuous forwardness induced the gentlemen who acted with me to appeal to the American Democrats against the flagrant violation of party faith and the utter negation of principle involved in the nomination of Mr. Greeley. We did it with a higher and nobler motive. We did it to vindicate truth and to protest against the offered reward for political treason to one who had occupied a life-time in the bitterest animadversion of those whose support he now has sought.

If our call had been a failure our duty would have been none the less performed, but there was a sympathetic chord in the American heart which responded in enthusiastic and harmonious tones to the musician's touch. There is a love for honesty, a reverence for principle, a deep-rooted desire for reform in the hearts of the American people, and the assemblage that I see before me to-day evinces an earnest intention to replace the banner which had fallen from nerveless and incompetent hands, and to prove that the old organization was not dead, but only sleeping. It has not died of its corruptions, as the latter-day saints proclaim who are so eager for its destruction. It will not hold out hopes of reward for party treason, nor bribes to secure Generals from the enemy's camp.

The eyes of the whole country are directed to this Convention, and many anxious hopes are to be realized or blasted, according as wisdom or its negative shall be the controlling spirit of our deliberations. We can make this body a famous one in history, as the source from which our future policy and destiny is to be shaped. We can make it equally significant and destitute of influence. We want no hydra-headed platform, which can be construed according to the wishes of the reader, for we have clear and undoubted theories, which can have but one interpretation, whether expounded in the North or in the South. We can have no intent to reopen the questions of the past, which the sword has so bloodily decided. We will give no encouragement to aught that looks toward revolution, nor can we, whilst submitting to the inevitable, and powerless to reverse what has been accomplished, satisfy ourselves by an accommodation to acts performed in violation of the Constitution. We must seek our alliance upon principle; we must, if we can, impress upon the minds of the laboring classes, who constitute the vast majority of our population, a full conviction of our honesty and our sincerity in behalf of measures tending to benefit them. We should prove our friendship by actions which may appease the conflicts between capital and labor through wise compromises acceptable to both, and whilst capital has rights which we should seek not to infringe, labor is entitled to earnest consideration, for it is the parent of wealth—it is the bone and sinew of the land.

It is a laborious work to attempt the reorganization of a party and to create its necessary machinery. For two months every thought of my brain has been monopolized—every energy of my mind and body directed—to the accomplishment of that object. The sincerity of my motives should avert criticism, and if there have been errors of omission or commission, they should be overlooked, for the spring of my action has been the intent to do right, and to aid in the preservation of the party and the perpetuation of its principles as the sole hope for the future of the country.

And now, gentlemen, weary as I am in mind and body, there is an absolute sensation of relief that I can terminate my self-imposed duty and abdicate my functions.

Col. Duncan's remarks were interspersed with frequent applause and were followed by long and continued clapping. At the close three cheers were given.

Col. Levi S. Chatfield, of New York, was appointed temporary Chairman.

COL. CHATFIELD'S SPEECH.

On motion, Col. Duncan appointed Judge Spalding, of New York, Judge Lyon, of Virginia, and Hon. Wm. Wheaton, of Michigan, as a committee to conduct the Chairman to his seat. He said he returned his most hearty thanks for the honor tendered. The crisis in which the Democratic party is found to-day, slaughtered in the house of its friends, makes necessary an appeal to such remedy as is in our power. Our forefathers thought they had laid the foundations of our Government so strong that they would withstand the storms of time. I was trained in this school. My first vote was cast for Andrew Jackson. I have not seen any reason to adopt heretical doctrines. The time came when the old Federals found an opportunity to plant the principles of concentration in the Government, and in 1861 was planted on the blood and ruin of our citizens. But the disaffection was so great that had we not been sold out we would have been again successful and turned back the tide of centralization. We never sold out to an old white hat. That is all there is of the man. I deny that the men who met at Baltimore had no right to transfer such as you and me to Grant, as to the Whig party, or to Greeley. We are here to-day to see if we cannot remedy this evil. This protesting spirit has culminated in this Convention. We are here to gather the fragments and build an edifice of Democracy. Were there nobody but myself, I would wrap our party flag about me and fight for its defense. This is a working Convention, not a talking one. I will, therefore, close.

The speech was interrupted by frequent applause.

Colonel Duncan said he was instructed by the committee to propose the name of Colonel Wm. M. Ferrey, of Michigan, as temporary Secretary.

Judge Spalding arose and said he had a sealed letter from Charles O'Conor, and he now wished to perform his trust by placing said letter in the hands of the Convention. Three cheers were given for O'Conor. A motion was made and carried that the communication be read. It is as follows:

LETTER FROM CHARLES O'CONOR.

New York, August 31, 1872.—To the National Democratic Convention appointed to assemble at Louisville on September 3, 1872—Gentlemen: A representative Democrat must be necessarily degenerate in practice, and become at last an intolerably mischievous domination of its official corps, if he be allowed to wield without effectual restraint those powers correctly denominated regal, by which from the very beginning, and in every clime, civil society has almost invariably hitherto been made the prey of its rulers. When founding our institutions, the fathers were impressed with this belief, and in order to curb the tendency of power to aggrandize itself, they introduced regulations of unexampled complexity. Rejecting two fundamental bases of the pre-existing system, they yet adopted the English system of weights and balances. However useful it may be in a land of three estates, King, Lords and Commons, experience has shown that this policy is inadequate to the maintenance of public order where absolute equality is recognized. With us it has proven exceedingly mischievous by its enormous multiplication of offices alone. It affords no permanently effectual restraint in power. To the inquiry, how such a restraint can be imposed in our country, politicians have responded: By the virtue and intelligence of the people. But this is a delusive speech. Laborious attention, constant watchfulness and combined action are necessary to practical results, and unattainable. If our people were placed upon a sterile soil, their perpetual hand to hand conflict for subsistence with niggard nature might qualify them for resistance to the official plunderer, and invigorate their defence. But in a great and prosperous country such popular guardianship cannot be had, and the only effectual protection against official misrule is in totally prohibiting those powers which cannot be effectually regulated by law. This fact was admitted in the public councils which gave [illegible] Constitution; but its recognition was [illegible] birth to our [illegible] prior human experience prevented by the want [illegible] History rience under just systems of government they furnished no precise parallels, and to obviate its evils, and it if only by such changes consequently that patriotism which saw and appreciated the right was unable to prove its statements or maintain its arguments by convincing illustrations.

Failing to engraft on the written law the limitations deemed necessary, the Democratic fathers sought a practical establishment on them by advocating a strict construction. This doctrine was never thoroughly enforced by any party, and is now totally disregarded. Hence our present political condition. Far reaching changes are needed that we can successfully inagurate the second stage in that grand social reform which was initiated by the fathers. A free and enlightened people, with capacities matured under the benign influence of their experiment, we can now direct and remedy those defects in their glorious though unfinished work, which experience has developed. They laid the foundation. Upon to us is devolved the duty of completing the superstructure. The enormous growth of official malversation in this city and State, which was brought to light during the last war, invited good men to action. The discoveries made afforded an opportunity of stirring the general mind to persistent effort for reform. The opportunity was improved, but was disturbed by the inopportune recurrence of a Presidential canvass. The current of popular sentiment has ever since moved steadily in the right direction. A desire has been extensively entertained that this mavement, originated in the nation's metropolis, should be permitted, in its natural course to draw into harmony with itself the houest masses throughout the country, and thereby lead to the establishment of an efficient, self-sustaining and permanent barriers against prevalent evils. Facts, however, warrant an apprehension that the pending conflict for the control of the federal power has broken in on the tending to reform, and may completely reverse it. Governmental intermeddling with those concerns of society, which under judicious laws might beneficially be left to individual action, is only real and actually developed in our system. This eminence is assigned to it because it is the fruitful parent of all others existing, and because the measures required to correct it are precisely those which would extirpate the unrestrainable powers now so mischievously exercised by our officials. If instead of prohibiting or diminishing this vicious practice, our people should impart to it new sanctions and greater vitality and form, it must become impossible. Of this practice, above all other living Americans, Mr. Greeley is the recognized champion, and no body of organized opponents to it has ever existed in the country except the Democratic party. Yet by the decree of a convention assuming to represent that party, Mr. Greeley has been gazetted as its standard bearer.

Opposition to that proceeding has in my mind a far deeper source than mere attachment to party. That I at least am uninfluenced by that sentiment may appear by the measures adopted against the recently detected municipal malefactors. In organizing the forces employed, equal opportunities for purging itself from complicity, we conceded to each of the great political parties and to every class. Thus innocence has been shielded from the discredit of evil associations inadvertently formed. Official villainy stands literally defenseless under actual or impending judgment, and all honest men in this great city and State are united as a brotherhood in common defense. My views of the public interest of existing public necessities compel me to repudiate the Baltimore nomination of Mr. Greeley. Whenever speaking or writing on the subject, I have uniformly condemned and declared my readiness to support a Democratic candidate. This circumstance has led to a supposal in some quarters that I had aspirations to office, and it has been suggested that my name be offered to your acceptance as a candidate. The object of this letter is to avoid misapprehensions on that point. If compelled to decide between General Grant and Mr. Greeley as candidates for the Presidency, the Democratic elector must rely very much upon mere conjecture. Those who incline to the latter as a choice of evils, suggest that a mitigation of oppressions at the South would result from his success. There may, however, be equal ground to hope for that good result in either issue of this rivalry. Once his second term shall have been secured, General Grant's only motive for inflicting misery on that portion of his countrymen will cease. An effort to secure a third term, or to establish a dictatorship, cannot reasonably be apprehended, and consequently a comparison of probabilities offers us merely a blank on the one hand or four years of undefinable activity on the other; that the wise people whose usages we have generally followed had occasion to pass through a transitional period somewhat similar to that now affecting the Southern interests in their action at that time. We could find safe precedents for a course of policy which would promptly reinstate Southern prosperity, but if there be one among the master spirits of the age who, even if inclined, could not adopt that policy, it is Mr. Greeley. The success of General Grant might involve no important consequences, but that of Mr. Greeley would consecrate the practices referred to, which in my opinion are absolutely incompatible with the permanency of Republican institutions.

In saying this it is not intended simply to pronounce for anti-protectionists. That question is left untouched. If the support of our home manufactures against foreign competition is to be regarded as sound policy, it can be afforded as needful by a much simpler, a less expensive, and a far less demoralizing process than that of our over-grown customs establishments. The true policy is national regeneration. It is far more comprehensive than was free trade. Its aim is to break the sceptre of the trading politicians and emancipate the masses. Four-fifths of the Governmental interventions now practiced in carrying on the affairs of society should be dispensed with. The existing indebtedness should indeed be held sacred, and to the last cent faithfully redeemed; but the power of borrowing money on the public credit, either by paper issues or otherwise, should be absolutely annulled. Neither the Federal Government nor down to the smallest division of a State should possess it. It is inconsistent with the prosperity of free Republican institutions. It is the very life-blood of aristocratic rule; for it fetters labor as the bond-slave of capital. In modern times it furnished the aliments indispensible to war. Without that most shocking of all national crimes and calamities, it would be impossible.

Such comprehensive advances in civilization as are here suggested may be as yet impracticable in the old world. If so, the fact only proves that ours is the high and holy mission of first making them separated by a wide ocean from any powerful nation. Mighty in the numbers and intelligence of our people, and through the deep and abiding interest in their country's welfare, no eternal enemy dare assault us. Indeed, it is manifest to unperverted reason that the adoption of efficient curbs of official power is alone needed to render this great continent the abode of peace, and of human happiness on a scale of surpassing magnitude. Even if defensive wars be necessary evils, the power of borrowing money should not be conceded. On that account it must be admitted that they cannot be carried on without vast outlays. But money is not more necessary than men. As the generation which wages war must furnish the warrior, why can it not also furnish the money to feed, clothe and arm him? It is compelled to furnish all the labor necessary for his maintenance and his belligerent operations. Posterity cannot fight our battles, nor is there any necessity that posterity should pay the cost of them. Our own young men must do the fighting. It is equally in the power of our old men to do the paying. "Pay as you go," is a maxim not less sound in political economy than in private affairs. If adopted, peculation must cease to pervert the Government, and war could no longer lend legal sanctions to cruelty and opoppression, and if, as some contend, war is the normal condition of mankind, posterity will have its own wars to sustain; and it is therefore unreasonable to burthen posterity with a debt for the cost of ours. Deeply interested in suppressing these idlers, the rulers of the people will of course treat them with derision. Still it must suffice for the present thus to submit them nakedly on their on merits, without a detailed vindication. Although this principle is already accepted in substance by some western States in recent constitutions, their advocating must in the main be deferred until the facts and fables of the pending canvass shall have ceased to engross attention.

A few brief suggestions will nevertheless be offered. The power to borrow money is mischievous just in proportion as the Government is liberal in form and as the nation is prosperous. The very constitution of human nature precludes any effectual regulation of it. In a monarchy there may be some supervision, but in a Republic the tendency to abuse is absolutely incorrigible. No human skill can devise or human diligence put in force adequate checks upon its exercise. If allowed to exist at all, it must inevitably be abused, and the abuse must progress to an extent absolutely intolerable. The mere burden of taxation induced by it is the least evil among its foul progeny. Fraud and corruption become virtuous under its influence. Statues to be set up as objects of popular reverence and similar honors have been proposed for its cultivators, and if it be not extirpated it will hereafter be decreed to them. A Government restrained within the limits of absolute necessity may be supported by moderate taxation. Still the nature and amount of taxes imposed should always be patent. They should be plain, visible and palpable. The deceitful and fraudulent methods which have been devised to draw money from the pockets of the people without their consciousness, or the imposition, should be abolished. Duties and excises for revenue belong to this class. Such methods of obtaining money should be known only through the prosecutions against criminals. The associated difficulty of sustaining the Government under such a system is unreal. The public expenses need not be greater, and the necessity of having all revenue by taxation at the very moment of expenditure, or before it is susceptible of being utilized made a source of great public benefit. However true it may be in a certain view of the matter that all taxes are ultimately borne by the laboring class, they are nevertheless in the first instance collected from those who possess property. If, by uniform usage, every dollar required for the expenses of the Government should be at once exacted from the tax payer, a powerful class would be enlisted in the duty of guarding against official extravagance. Government mortgages upon labor, the most safe and desirable investment, would cease, and if in their place affrighted capitalists could contemplate only the approaching tax gatherer in self-defense, they would perform a public duty hitherto neglected. Legislative corruption would be effectually opposed under this keen scrutiny. No man whose record was tainted would pass the ordeal of an election. Long and patient study has convinced me that on the practicability of establishing precisely this popular surveillance rests the last hopes of our republic. The paternal Government is not necessarily mischievous in a monarchy, but in a republic based upon universal suffrage, it cannot fail to foster innumerable evils. It is in fact the sum of all villainies. A Government which devotes some of its powers to putting money into men's pockets must employ others in extortion. The policy involved a continuous career of favoritism.

My deep aversion to all these things has induced me to encourage the movement which you represent, and doubtless my home will be preserved for your consideration as a nominee. In that event I beg leave respectfully to withdraw it. The strength of emphasis which has worded the language employed by some gentlemen in addressing me on this subject must be my excuse for the remarks which follow. Success should of course be an object in the present condition of affairs. Other leaders will afford a better prospect of attaining it. A choice can be made from many equally reliable as reformers—probably more capable of public office, and yet less likely to combine formidable elements of opposition. I could not consent to subscribe to a platform containing either a profusion of faith or a recounting of errors and a promise of amendment. The existing practice requires this, and that practice may not be abruptly set aside. Love of that absolute independence which cannot now be maintained in public office, a desire to promote your success, instead of impeding it, and a belief that I can thus best perform in individual cases my quota of public service, have created in my mind an unalterable resolve to remain in private station.

Yours truly, CHARLES O'CONOR.

The reading of the letter met with occasional outbursts of hearty approval. The allusion repudiating the action of the Baltimore Convention received an uproarious demonstration of enthusiasm.

COMMITTEES.

Mr. Van Allen, of New York, offered a resolution that a committee of one from each State represented in this Convention be appointed as a Committee on Credentials. Adopted.

Mr. Byington, of Iowa, offered a resolution that each delegation choose a member for the Committee on Credentials, one for the Committee on Permanent Organization, and one for the National Executive Committee.

VALLANDINGHAM HEARD FROM.

Mr. Vallandingham, of Kentucky, moved to adjourn till November 20th. [Cries of "put him out."]

AN APOLOGY FOR VALLANDIGHAM.

Afternoon Session.—Mr. Habler, of Kentucky, rising to a privileged question, apologized to the Convention for the proposition of Mr. Vallandigham at the morning session to adjourn to November 20. Mr. Vallandigham was so strong a Democrat that on misapprehending Mr O'Conor's letter as meaning to dictate a platform to the Convention, and verging toward Greeley, he had under a momentary impulse vented his resentment in the manner alluded to.

DISPATCH FROM MAINE.

The chairman read a telegram from Saco, Maine, addressed to him, requesting, in behalf of twenty thousand expectant and waiting Democrats of that State, that the names of the nominees, so soon as determined, should be telegraphed to the sender of the dispatch.

Mr. Williams, of Pennsylvania, suggested that Delegate Burr, of New Jersey, be called on to entertain the Convention with a speech while writing for the reports of the committee.

MR. BURR'S SPEECH.

Mr. Chairman:—It is hardly right, or at least fair, to call upon a man to make a speech when his heart and brain are both laboring with great anxiety to conclude the important deliberations of this Convention, but it does afford me at least the pleasure to say, that in twenty-five years' experience in attending Democratic Conventions, I have in all this length of time not looked upon a Convention of men that I felt commanded the respect and confidence of honorable gentlemen more than the body that is now before me. [Applause.] Gentlemen, I see gray haired men, who feel that in the course of nature their hours of life are almost ended, coming to this Convention at this season of the year, eight hundred or a thousand miles, merely to enter their protest against the surrender of this glorious old party. [Applause.] Gentlemen, your Convention is composed of the very best citizens of the United States, farmers of wealth and position, men who never asked an office, and would not accept an office. [Applause.] To see these men coming here is enough to stir the heart of patriotism in my countrymen. They call this a side show. Well, gentlemen, it is about the largest side show I have ever seen in my life, and as compared with the Baltimore Convention, in respectability of its members, in the patriotism of its intentions, they are a body of men that are all together as far beyond the Baltimore Convention as that Convention was beyond the capacity and respectability of a ward caucus of politicians in one of our large cities. I don't want to say anything very bad about these men. I found, when I looked upon the faces of these men composing the Baltimore Convention, that I did not see one hundred men that I had ever seen before in the ranks of the Democratic party. There were a few old leaders who had entered into this bargain to surrender our platform of principles and our banner, and even our party name, into the hands of the most inveterate and factious enemies of our party and country. Yes, they were these gentlemen, and you are told that there is no distinction, that there is no popular feeling against the endorsement of this surrender. Well, gentlemen, look at this protest to-day. [Applause.] Look at the protest of the thousand delegates coming here to enter their protest against this abominable surrender. Now, gentlemen, we are here to-day for an object as sacred as that which gathered our afthers together once in Independence Hall, Philadelphia. [Applause.] They assembled to declare independence and liberty. You have come here to-day to defend independence and liberty. [Loud applause.] That independence and liberty has fallen by the way into corrupt hands. You have come here to reclaim independence and liberty in the name of the Democratic party and the American people. [Applause.]

Gentlemen, I have seen tears in many old men's eyes since I came to this Convention. What for? Tears shed in sorrow for our country. We have heard about this wood-chopper of Chappaqua. [Laughter.] While he is an old friend of mine in other matters, I have never agreed with him on political questions. My relations with him have always been kindly, but when they bring this wood-chopper, though a friend of mine, and allow him to cut down the tree of Democracy, I must enter my protest. We say, gentlemen, in the language of the old song, when an attempt is made to cut it down,

"Woodman, spare that tree,
Touch not a single bough,
In youth it sheltered me,
And I'll protect it now.

'Twas my forefather's hand
That placed it near his cot;
Then, woodman, let it stand,
Thy axe shall harm it not.

My heart-strings round thee cling
Close as thy bark, old friend;
There shall the wild birds sing,
And still thy branches bend.

Old tree, the storm still brave—
Chappaqua, leave the spot;
While I've a hand to save,
Thy hand shall harm it not!"

Here we stand. We will not have the tree of the Constitution of Democracy hewn down in the name of the Democratic party. [Applause.] It is not that we wish to part company from those who have been with us in the Democratic party. They call us "bolters." Good God, gentlemen, do they know the meaning of the language? To "Bolt," in a political sense, means to get out from. Now, then, men have gone out from the Democratic party, and have gone into one wing of the Republican party, and yet they say we are bolters. They who have bolted away from one party because we will not follow them, then, they say, we are bolters. We are not bolters. We are standing upon the Constitution of our country. We are standing by the kind of Government our fathers made in defense of that liberty, which began on this Continent with the declaration of independence. [Violent Applause.]

TIME REQUESTED.

Mr. Van Armon, from the Committee on Credentials, reported that they had not been able to obtain and properly engross the names of the delegates, and asked for further time until to-morrow morning's session, which was allowed, to complete the report.

PERMANENT OFFICERS.

The Committee on Permanent Organization reported as follows:

President—Judge James Lyons, of Virginia.

Vice President—B. B. Richards, of Illinois; Silven Johnson, Iowa; Austin Wales, Michigan; C. S. W. Price, Mississippi; Ed. Stokes, South Carolina; B. R. Menser, Wisconsin; Col. Horace Risley, Maryland; Judge L. Sibley, Missouri; Daniel L. Tagg, North Carolina; Cyrus Vance, West Virginia; Col. Weene, Georgia; Dr. L. P. Blackhorn, Arkansas; Dr. Brook, Kansas; Sam. J. Bayard, Colorado; C. C. Nesbut, Alabama; Peter Gilsey, New York; W. H. Munnell, Kentucky; E. J. McCane, Pennsylvania; C. H. Reese, Indiana; Silas F. Kendrick, Tennessee; J. C. Martin, New Jersey; Geo. T. Shleack, Ohio; Geo. D. Parker, Virginia.

Secretaries—Wm. M. Ferry, Michigan; John J. Van Allen, New York; John R. Milburn, Illinois; Albert D. Schofield, Pennsylvania; Earnest Duncan, West Virginia; E. O. Pickering, Missouri; A. E. Gregory, New Jersey.

The report was adopted and the Chairman appointed Messrs. Spalding, of New York, and Burns and Bayard, of New Jersey, to escort Judge Lyon to the chair.

COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. Beekman, of New York, moved that a committee of one be appointed by the delegation from each State to constitute the Committee on Resolutions. Adopted.

Mr. Beekman, of New York—It has been ordered by the Convention that the letter of Charles O'Conor be referred to the Committee on Resolutions when appointed. I move that it be now so referred. The motion was agreed to.

Mr. Reed, of Indiana—I move that the Committee on Resolutions be requested to report to this Convention at nine o'clock to-morrow morning. The motion was agreed too.

A call of States was then made for nomination for members of the Committee on Resolutions.

The Convention adjourned until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

THE PROSPECT.

The letter of O'Conor has greatly strengthened him with the delegates, who regard him with such respect and affection as to move them to tender him the nomination in spite of his firm declining. They feel that with his letter as a platform, himself as the candidate for the Presidency, and John Quincy Adams for Vice President, they can make such an appeal to the Democracy of the country as will turn the masses from the Liberal candidate. Hence the ticket is likely to bear the names of these two distinguished men. It is stated that with such a nomination, such strong German Democratic papers as the Cincinnati Volksfreund, the St. Louis Anzeiger des Westens and the Philadelphia Demokrat, would support the ticket.

The leaders of this movement regard the convention so far a great success. The convention is remarkable for having a large number of old men as delegates and for the very small extent of whisky drinking as compared with such conventions usually. Phrenologically and physicially speaking, it is not often that such a body gets together as a nominating convention.

ST. LOUIS.

Republican Convention To-day.

ST. LOUIS, September 3.—The delegates to the Republican State Convention, which meets here to-morrow, have mostly arrived, and canvassing for candidates has been lively during the day. Ex-Lieutenant Governor Stanard will publish a letter to-morrow declining to have his name used in connection with the Governorship, and it is understood that John F. Benjamin will also refuse the nomination. This leaves the field about clear for ex-Senator Henderson, and the talk among the delegates is that he will be nominated by acclamation.

Another Villain Out of the Way.

NASHVILLE, September 3.—Tobe Dorden (colored) attempted to commit a rape upon a little girl ten years of age, daughter of W. F. Pride, who resides near Sprinfield, Robertson county. The screams of the child caused other children to go to her assistance, when Dorden abandoned his purpose and returned to work near by. Mr. Pride went down after him with a double barrel shot-gun, drove him to the spot where the rape was attempted, and gave him his choice of death by hanging or shooting. He chose the former and was swung up, thus expiating his offense where it was committed.

[Correspondence of the New York Herald.]

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 2, 1872.

DEMOCRATIC-LIBERAL MEETING.

The Democratic-Liberal-Republican meeting passed off quietly. The court room was crowded—all the seats filled and perhaps seventy-five standing, and notwithstanding there were several drunks, pretty good order was maintained. Hon. D. Kane, their candidate for delegate to the Constitutional Convention, addressed them in his usual hoarse, quick, sharp style, and at one time started to give the changes that he thought necessary to be made in our State Constitution, but mentioned only one, that I heard, viz., that the "Ayes" and "Noes" should be called upon the passage of every bill by our Legislature, thereby compelling every member to go upon the record, pro or con.

R. M. Gibson, Esq., of Pittsburgh, arrived in town by the evening train, and entered the Court House while Mr. Kane was speaking, and was received with eclat, for he has been considered by them as the great war-horse of Democracy in days gone by in Western Pennsylvania. In his speech Mr. G. gave a rehash of the slanders against General Hartranft; made his old allusion to his friends of Bull Skin township (in this county), then drew a graphic picture of the woes and miseries of the Southern people, and of the wide-spread desolation and ruin of their beautiful land, and after "whipping the devil round the bush" for more than an hour, at last came to the scratch, and mentioned Horace Greeley, but elicited very faint applause, and roused no enthusiasm among his audience until he recited the woes and horrors of the imprisonment of that arch-fiend and traitor, Jeff Davis, in Fortress Monroe, and gave his own (Mr. G.'s) history of the incidents of Horace G.'s deciding to go on the bond of Davis; then, for the first time during the evening, our Court room resounded with the old Fayette Democracy.

Mr. G. is a finished speaker and a very agreeable gentleman, and has the reputation of being a good lawyer and a good political speaker. Of all the speeches I have ever heard from him since 1863, this one fell the flattest and made the least impression, for it was evident, throughout, that H. G. was a very bitter pill for him, and, if it had been possible to avoid it, he would not have mentioned H. G. at all, but there was no loop-hole through which he could escape.

While Mr. G. was picturing the misery of old Jeff., I could not help but think of the bloody chasm across which we are asked to shake hands—that chasm extending from Belle Isle through Andersonville, Sauisbury, Florence and the host of other rebel prison pens through the the South, in which thousands of our brave boys suffered all the miseries of absolute starvation—a chasm too wide, too deep for my hand to be extended over to clasp in fellowship the hands of those who caused it. As Mr. G. said, in one of his heart-felt sentences, "God may forgive them, but I can't.

REPUBLICAN MEETING.

A. W. Taylor, Esq., of Indiana county, arrived in town last evening, ready for our meeting to-night, remained quietly at his hotel, and saw but few of his friends. More anon. Q.

Jefferson's Grief at His Wife's Death.

The story of Jefferson's grief at the loss of his wife, as Mr. Parton tells it in the Atlantic, is very touching. Before the Marquis de Chasellux had been gone from Monticello many hours, the sixth child of Thomas and Martha Jefferson was born, making the number of their living children three. It was death to the mother. She lingered four months, keeping her husband and all the household in what he termed "dreadful suspense." He took his turn with his sister and with her sister in sitting up at night. With his own hands he administered her medicines and her drinks. For four months he was either at her bedside or at work in a little room near the head of her bed, never beyond call. His eldest daughter, a little girl of ten, but maturer than her age denoted, never lost the vivid recollection of her father's tender assiduity during those months. When the morning of September 6 dawned, it was evident the mother had not many hours to live, and all the family gathered around her bed. Thirty years after, six of the female servants of the house enjoyed a kind of honorable distinction at Monticello, as "the servants who were in the room when Mrs. Jefferson died"—such an impression did the scene leave upon the minds of the little secluded community. It was a tradition among the slaves, often related by these six eye-witnesses, that the dying lady gave her husband "many directions about many things that she wanted done;" but that when she came to speak of the children she could not command herself for some time. At last she said she could not die contented if she thought her children would ever have a stepmother; and her husband, holding her hand, solemnly promised that he would never marry again. Toward noon, as she was about to breathe her last, his feelings became uncontrollable. He almost lost his senses. His sister, Mrs. Carr, lead him staggering from the room into his library, where he fainted, and remained so long insensible that the family began to fear that he, too, had passed away. They brought in a pallet and lifted him upon it. He revived only to a sense of immeasurable woe. His daughter Martha, who was to be the solace of all his future years, ventured into the room that night; and even then such was the violence of his grief, that she was amazed and confounded. For three weeks he remained in that apartment, attended all day and night by this little child. He walked, as she related, almost incessantly all day and all night, only lying down now and then, when he was utterly exhausted, upon the pallet that had been hurriedly brought while he lay in his fainting fit. When at last he left the house he would ride on horseback for hours and hours, roaming about in the mountain roads, in the dense woods, along the paths least frequented, accompanied only by his daughter, "a solitary witness" she says, "to many a violent bursts of grief, the remembrance of which has consecrated particular scenes beyond the power of time to obliterate."

Four O'Clock.

VERMONT.

NORTH CAROLINA
GRANT, WILSON AND VICTORY!
VERMONT!

Hurrah! for Grant and Wilson!

"CARRY THE NEWS TO HORACE" ONCE MORE!

Greatly Increased Republican Majorities.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKETS ALL ELECTED!

Glory Enough, Surely, for Vermont.

MONTPELIER, VT., September 3.—Seventy-six counties have been heard from up to ten o'clock, showing that seventy-one Republicans, four Democrats and one Greeley Republican have been chosen to the Legislature.

The vote for Governor from fifty-seven towns foot up as follows: Converse (Republican), 15,337; Gardner (Liberal Republican), 6,524. The straight Republican county tickets are apparently all elected.

BURLINGTON, VT. September 3.—The election passed off quietly in this city. The heaviest vote ever polled was cast. The growth of the city has been largely of citizens of foreign birth, and the vote shows a corresponding Democratic increase. The Liberal Republicans polled about thirty votes.

Ex-Mayor Ballou, Republican, is elected Representative by 103 majority. The Republican majorities on officers range from 175 on the State ticket to 325 for Sheriff.

The Democrats confidently expected to sweep the city. The Republicans fired a salute of thirteen guns to-night over the result, and there is great rejoicing at the Republican Headquarters.

NEW YORK, September 3.—Large crowds assembled this evening at the Grant headquarters to hear the news of the election in Vermont. The betting at the Fifth Avenue Hotel was that Grant would carry the State by 15,000 majority. Much excitement was manifested. The Democratic headquarters were closed, and no apparent interest was manifested over the election.

RUTLAND, VT., September 3.—Rutland county, in fourteen towns heard from, gives 1,911 majority for Converse. The balance of the county will increase the majority over the Republican majority of 1870.

MONTPELIER, V. T., September 3.—Returns of the elections thus far received are favorable for the Republicans. Twenty towns thus far heard from, return nineteen Republicans to the Legislature and one Democrat. Ten towns, which in 1870 gave Stewart, Republican, 1,380 majority for Governor, now gives 1,902 for Converse, Republican.

RUTLAND, V. T., September 3.—Converse, for Governor, receives in this town 770, and Gardner 636—a democratic gain of over 500 votes since 1868.

MONTPELIER, VT., September 4.—Nothing has been received up to this time (2 A. M.) to change the aspect as telegraphed at ten o'clock. Eighty-six towns give Converse 22,091, and Gardner 9,222. These towns embrace about one-half the vote of the State. One hundred and one towns return 95 Republicans, 5 Democrats and one Liberal Republican to the Legislature.

KITTANNING, PA.

Immense Gathering of the Republicans of Armstrong County—Fully 4,000 People Present—Grand Torchlight Procession.

[Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

KITTANNING, September 3, 1872.

The largest gathering of the Republican hosts since the great campaign of 1864 took place here to-day. Fully 4,000 of the honest voters of Armstrong county were present, and took great interest in the speeches delivered. To-night a grand torchlight procession is parading the streets, with Col. Sirwell, an old war Democrat, as their marshal. Armstrong county is fully wakened up, and will give a good account of herself next month.

Judge Shannon and others made effective speeches, which were often interrupted by loud and prolonged cheering. H.

MERCER, PA.

Republican Mass Convention—Speeches by General Harry White and J. Vannote, Esq.

[Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

MERCER, PA., September 3, 1872.

The Republicans of Mercer county held a grand mass Convention here to-day. About three thousand people were present, and great enthusiasm prevailed. General Harry White and Mr. Vannote made telling speeches. Mercer county will give her usual majority for the State ticket, and exceed her vote of 1868 for Grant and Wilson. J. P.

UNIONTOWN, PA.

e Gathering of Republicans—Able Speeches by Pittsburghers.

[Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

UNIONTOWN, PA., September 3, 1872.

A very large meeting of the Republicans of Fayette county was held here to-day. J. W. F. White, Esq., and R. B. Carnahan, Esq., of Pittsburgh, made very able addresses. The Republicans of Fayette county feel confident of reducing the Democratic majority at least two hundred this fall. Q.

THE CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, September 3, 1872.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

Clear weather for New England on Wednesday, with northerly to north-easterly winds; generally clear weather for the middle States, with winds shifting to easterly and southerly, and a rising temperature; north-westerly to north-easterly winds and partly cloudy weather from Louisiana to Alabama, and thence northward to Ohio and lower Michigan; southerly to easterly winds from Missouri to Michigan and westward, with diminishing pressure.

Death on the Rail.

NEW YORK, September 3.—Yesterday afternoon a train on the Long Island Road ran over a carriage, near Westbury station, containing two ladies and a boy aged seven and a girl aged fourteen. They were all killed or fatally injured. The victims are supposed to be a family named Castle, living in New York.

NEW YORK

Steamship America Burned—Delegates to the Pork Packers' and Provision Dealers' Convention—Bloomingdale Asylum Investigation—The Metis Disaster.

NEW YORK, September 3, 1872.

BRUTAL FIGHT.

James Frame bit off the thumb and fingers of Herman Lipkin in a fight last night, and Lipkin threw a glass tumbler at Frame, fracturing his skull. Both were arrested. Frame will die. When taken to the station house, Frame, who was crazy, was found drinking the blood which was copiously flowing from his fractured head.

GEORGIA RAILROAD BONDS.

Henry Clews denies that his banking firm had any other than strictly business connections with the marketing of the Georgia railroad bonds, they having been in no way connected with railroad contracts in that State of any nature, and they had no knowledge or part in the alleged fraudulent issues of bonds.

BLOOMINGDALE ASYLUM INVESTIGATION.

The case of Rose McCabe, on the demand for her release from the Bloomingdale Asylum, was again before the Court to-day. She testified as to the manner of her being placed in the asylum, and said that up to September 7th, 1871, she was pretty well treated, but after that time was beaten sixteen different times by Elizabeth Riley, an attendant, because she had told the doctors that she had ill-used another patient. The case is still on trial.

STEAMSHIP AMERICA BURNED.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company received a cable dispatch to-day from Yokohama, via Hong Kong, announcing that their steamship America, from San Francisco on August 1st, arrived at Yokohama on August 24th, and on the same night was burned to the water's edge. The passengers and crew were saved. Hong Kong treasure amounting to four hundred thousand dollars is still on board. The vessel was the newest of the company's steamships, built in 1869, and was valued at one million. The company are their own underwriters.

PORK PACKERS' AND PROVISION DEALERS' CONVENTION.

At a meeting of the produce packers and provision dealers, held to-day at the Produce Exchange, the following members were appointed delegates to the Convention of Pork Packers and Provision Dealers to be held in Cincinnati on the 18th inst.: Geo. D. Cragin, A. E. Orr, Samuel Daily, J. W. McCulloh, Albert S. Roe, and A. S. Jewell. Addresses were made by several members, in which they strongly advocated the full support of the New York Produce Exchange to the Convention, and denounced the present system of western inspection, more particularly in Chicago, and from which they looked to the coming Convention for protection. The meeting was largely attended and a great deal of interest manifested.

THE METIS DISASTER.

It is said that the officers of the steamer Metis claim that she was struck below the water line, as the Metis at the time of the collision was rolling heavily, and it is supposed that the schooner struck her low down on one side as she keeled over on the other side, and if this was the case the officers say it is not remarkable that they were unable to discover any external signs of injury. Others say that if the steamer was so struck she must have infallibly crushed the schooner as she rolled over to the other side, and sent her to the bottom. On the night of the collision some one on board the schooner was heard to say "we are sinking," and one of the crew of the Nellie Cushing, supposed to have been the author of the mischief, declares that the steamer in collision with her was painted white. Many believe that the Cushing was in collision with another vessel, and that the original schooner sunk immediately after the disaster.

THE OLD WORLD.

FRANCE.

COLLISION OF AUTHORITIES.

PARIS, September 3.—There is a collision of authority at Lyons between the municipal and national authorities, which causes much feeling and excitement. The City Council had removed certain ecclesiastical teachers from the schools. The National Government interfered and reinstated them. The citizens several times collected in large numbers in the streets to protest against the restoration of teachers. The Government was at last obliged to call on the military to disperse the gatherings and prevent their recurrence.

A mob at Narbonne to-day assaulted sentries and pelted them with stones. The assailants were quickly dispersed by the troops and ten of the ringleaders arrested. Rigorous measures are expected in consequence of this outbreak.

DISSATISFIED GERMANS.

M. De Remusat declared to-day before the permanent committee of the Assembly at Versailles that the military party in Germany were dissatisfied with the treaty of peace and with Bismarck, becaused France is permitted to retain the fortress at Belfort.

GREAT BRITAIN.

FIRE IN THE CANTERBURY CATHEDRAL.

LONDON, September 3.—The eastern end of the roof of the great cathedral of Canterbury was badly burned this morning. The fire caught over the shrine of Bishop Becket, by the upsetting of a brazier used by the workmen in repairing the lead roofing. The excitement was intense, and the whole garrison turned out to assist the firemen. There was great delay in checking the flames, owing to the scarcity of water, and considerable damage was done to the structure and its contents.

SYRACUSE.

Liberal Democratic Convention.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., September 3.—The largest crowd of people ever seen here the night before a State Convention is here to-night. The hotels are all over-crowded. Canvassing has been going on all day, and is very active this evening. A large majority of the delegates now here, especially of the Liberals, are ready to nominate Judge Church for Governor, but Senator Lord says his declination is positive. Next to him Francis Keenan has stood the longest all day, but this afternoon and evening Augustus Schell, of New York, has been growing in strength among the Democrats.

The New York Democratic delegation this evening held a caucus to take a vote on a candidate for Governor, which stood as follows: Augustus Schell, 14; Francis Keenan, 3; Judge Church, 2; Horatio Seymour, 1. One member of the delegation was absent.

It is now said that unless there is more positive information that Judge Church will not accept the nomination for Governor. An effort will be made to nominate him by acclamation. Those leading the movement say he has no right to decline. If this nomination is abandoned a ballot will be had and the votes be confined to Kernan, Schell and Potter, and it is probable that a preponderance will be in favor of the former.

The Liberals have selected the officers of their Convention. Ex-Speaker Youngston will be temporary and Speaker Littlejohn permanent chairman.

After the wreck the crew devoted all their energies to saving the cargo, no attention being paid to the valuable luggage of the passengers.

BONDS at Frankfort 96.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 48f.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 113½@113¾.

THE Exposition that opens to-day at Cincinnati, judging from what we see in the Cincinnati papers, will be a grand success.

AND now it is said that the New York Herald has recalled its Livingstone discoverer home, in order that he may hunt up where that mythical bloody chasm over which some want to shake hands is located. We fear he will not risk his reputation by engaging in the search.

FROM the few scattering returns that have been received from Vermont at this hour of writing it is to be plainly seen that the Republican ranks stand where they stood two years ago, and the usual majority for the Republican ticket will be given. Are not the ring-masters of this farce about sick of it? Why it will not amount to a decent side show when the November elections come around.

ALL along the political line the Republican camp fires are brightly burning. In our own State there is a general awakening to the importance of the coming October election, and most gratifying campaign work is going forward for our candidates, and the outlook is one of exceeding good promise. With a continuance of well directed efforts, Pennsylvania is sure of a Republican victory, and such a one as will make quake the fusionists from one end of the land to the other, and, what is much better, will ensure beyond a doubt the triumphant election of Grant and Wilson.

A NOTICEABLE feature of Republican meetings everywhere this year, is the vast crowds in attendance, and the fact that many Democrats are present, as deeply interested as any in the discourses delivered. It shows a malleable state of the public mind. The people seek news, intelligence and argument. The sallies of wit, the personal assaults on the characters of rival candidates, do not go for much; but the careful discussion of the principles governing each party are listened to with intelligent interest. We infer from this that the votes cast at the ensuing Presidential election will represent more of intelligent, fair thought than those cast at any election for many years. But because of this we think the Republican party will have the largest popular vote it ever received before.

AGAIN we would remind our citizens of the importance of providing themselves with flags and streamers before the rush commences, for the coming Soldiers' Convention. This day two weeks the veterans will begin to gather; and from official information received at Republican Headquarters, thousands of them will be here, and their friends should begin to prepare at once. We hope to see all those who are willing that these "Boys in Blue" be given a reception worthy of the cause they are the heroes of, will dress up their houses, stores and workshops as true Americans should. Many of these same veterans were fed in City Hall both going to the front and returning home. Let them again return to their homes with the same good opinion all soldiers have heretofore entertained of Pittsburgh.

SO COMPLETELY demoralized are the Demi-Liberals that several of the faithful who have put up money on the election of Buckalew for Governor, were trying to hedge their bets yesterday, but could find no takers. We do not approve of betting in any manner, and have refused on two occasions to allow parties to announce that bets on the election of Hartranft could be had at this office; but we assure those who have wagered on Buckalew that they will lose every dollar they have staked on him, and the sooner they get out of it the better it will be for them. We do not blame the men who have been betting on Mr. Buckalew; they have been made believe, by the leaders of the party, that victory was a certainty, and at the same time those leaders knew full well that just the reverse would be the result.

ONLY a few weeks remain for work during the present canvass. We urge upon every Republican the necessity of doing within this time all he can for the success of the candidates. Do not rely upon the prevalent expectation of a signal triumph. The omens are, indeed, full of encouragement; but this fact should only stimulate to fresh exertions. If it shall be accepted as a reason for supineness, the consequences may prove disastrous. But if it shall be received as an incentive to additional labor, there can be no difficulty in deciding beforehand that our ticket will be elected, and Republican majorities in both branches of the Legislature. We make these suggestions only to induce all our friends to omit no proper efforts to secure a new lease of Republican ascendency in this commonwealth. It is of high moment that the verdict of the people be rendered in terms so unqualified and mendatory as to leave no doubt as to the meaning.

DID ANY of our readers ever give rein to imagination, and try to conjure up the funny scene that would transpire, in the rush for offices, could "Honest Horace" manage to reach the White House? It will be remembered that he is committed to giving office to those who helped him. There is the immortal Tilton, free-lover, sentimentalist, lecturer, and admirer of Horace. He would make a good Secretary of War—for there is a great deal of fight in him sometimes. Then we have Fenton, who might be made Secretary of the Interior—where he would be at home, as all foxes are. Frank Blair might be made Secretary of State, for he has achieved fame in writing letters. And why not Semmes for the Navy? Pendleton might do for Secretary of the Treasury, as he has as much horror of gold as Greeley has; and if he wouldn't accept, Tweed would. Anybody—say Jerry Black, would do for Attorney General. The minor offices! how they would fatten hungry rebels.

YOUNG MEN.

Most young men regard the want of a rich father as a great misfortune, and as a sufficient excuse for a failure to succeed in life. Money and the advantages it brings—education, influence and almost a "start" in life—are regarded as almost essential to success. They overlook the feeling of dependence it cherishes and the enervating effect it produces. They forget that the proudest and most hardy oak is ever self-sustaining and is nourished into strength and power by resisting itself the force of winds and storms, and not by being protected by others. They neglect, too, the pages of biography which abound in examples of men who, from poverty, have attained eminence in every sphere of life, whether it be in accumulating wealth or acquiring knowledge or in invention, discovery or in any of the professions; while comparatively few so distinguished were nourished in the lap of ease and wealth. Their own observation, too, might correct their erroneous impressions and stimulate them to energy for self-elevation. All around them they may see young men possessing every apparent advantage, unambitious, indolent, prodigal of time and money, waiting for the portion of goods that is to fall to them, that they may spend it. On the other hand, they may see multitudes of poor, but industrious, earnest and rising young men, who, if spared, are certainly destined to make a mark in the world. Instead, therefore, of allowing this absence of the ease and luxuries of wealth to discourage them, it should give them heart and stimulate ambition. Parton, who has written the interesting biographies of Commodore Vanderbilt, J. Gordon Bennett, John C. Calhoun and Henry Clay, in one of these articles says: "Let us never again commend any one for 'rising' from obscurity to eminence, but reserve our special homage for those who have become respectable human beings in spite of having had every advantage procured for them by rich fathers."

THE FALL TRADE.

The seekers after pleasure and health are leaving their haunts at the seaside, or mountains, or springs, and coming back to engage in the activities of business. Every indication exists of an unusually large Fall trade. Many of our manufacturers are obliged to decline orders, having more than they can execute. All are running full time. There was never before a better outlook for all our industrial establishments. Our merchants and shopkeepers are likewise in excellent spirits, and look forward to a lively and lucrative fall trade. The signs are favorable that the business of this city for 1872 will greatly surpass in magnitude and resulting profits that of any former year. We trust, in this era of prosperity these men of business will not be unmindful that the city press is one of their most useful auxiliaries for disseminating abroad a knowledge of the business and resources of the city, and extending the area over which our merchandise and the products of our factories are diffused. The advertising columns of the GAZETTE afford pleasing evidence that the men of business appreciate its age and wide-spread circulation and extend to it a generous patronage. While we are duly grateful for this we feel that it has been well earned. The GAZETTE has, for more than four score years, been a constant and faithful sentinel on the commercial as well as political watch tower, sounding the alarm when the business prosperity of Pittsburgh was menaced with any malign legislation and advocating all legitimate measures calculated to support or advance the material interests of the city and State. We claim, too, that notwithstanding its great age, the GAZETTE was never before so lively, vigorous or complete a newspaper, or so eligible a vehicle for a wide-spread diffusion of the intelligence contained in its numerous advertisements. Scarcely a day passes that some of its patrons do not assure us of the benefits accruing to them from a free use of its columns. Our younger cotemporaries may have a like experience—we speak only for ourselves. We glory in the rich prospects of the opening fall trade and only hope that the press, our own GAZETTE especially, will share in the general prosperity. It is determined at all events to deserve to do so.

BUCKALEW AMONG US.

The candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket is now stumping the towns immediately around us, and on Thursday evening will speak in this city. He has laid off the garb of a private citizen, and is personally offering reasons why he should be clothed with gubernatorial honors. By so doing, he renders certain questions and criticisms entirely proper, which, were he a private citizen, might not be addressed to him. It is reported that he has attempted to explain away some of these charges, and that he has not been specific and direct. We wish to dispel all temptation to indefiniteness, by coming directly at the different items mooted, and we shall be glad for a specific answer.

1. Mr. Buckalew,—were you a Senator in Congress during the war, did you take an oath to support the Constitution, and did, while yet a Senator, and during the war, attend and preside over the Fishing Creek camp meeting? And was that meeting composed of rebel sympathizers, draft deserters, bounty jumbers, barn burners, and murderers? Was the object of this meeting to glorify secession, and oppose the Government, and was it broken up at the rumored approach of United States troops? We do not want glittering generalities for answer, nor any talk about peaceful farmers, or any evasions of any kind. As showing him the total lack of necessity for any statements, we give an excerpt from a paper published at Lock Haven, meeting his allegations in reference to the peaceful character of the assemblage:

"He could not have been unaware that previous to the arrival of the soldiers in that vicinity these rebels had killed Captain Robinson and shot at numberless other peaceable citizens while they were passing along in pursuit of their regular lawful occupations; that loyal lives had been threatened; that barns of Republican citizens had been burned in pursuance of previous threats; and that general terror prevailed among the Union men who resided in the vicinity of the rebellious district. All these facts must have been known at the time to Senator Buckalew, and he cannot have forgotten them. And yet, forsooth, he calls the perpetrators of these flagitious crimes quiet and unoffending citizens!"

Nor will it just answer to talk about reserved opinions, and that his led him to think that the war should be stopped. The simple truth is, our Government was at war with rebels, and any overt support of rebellion was treason. If Mr. Buckalew was guilty in the items suggested in the above questions, he was flagrantly traitorous in his conduct to the country. We want him to answer plainly.

2. Did you, in the United States Senate, vote, along with Davis, Saulsbury and others, in favor of discharging colored soldiers; that their pay shall go to their masters, and not to themselves, and that if they were killed their masters should be paid their value? Did you do this? If you did, you were siding the South; you were assuming to keep alive slavery; you were encouraging rebellion by every legislative means you could employ. There is no explaining such a vote in the light of to-day. It points with absolute conclusiveness to the spirit which animated its owner during the war. Mr. Buckalew, did you vote as above indicated?

3. Did you visit Niagara Falls, and consult with rebels there? What were the subjects of consultation? Were they in the interest of the dignity and peace of the North, or the South? Did you correspond with rebel heads of Departments? And what was the object of this? Was it to urge upon their attention how sinful and wrong was the war in which they were engaged, and that they should cease? If so, please explain.

4. How about the Dechert and McClure contested election cases? In one you urged that every honest vote should be counted. In the other, whole election districts were thrown out. The opposite course, pursued in the two cases, saved your men. One of these principles, as advocated by you was right—the other wrong. You chose both. Was it honorable, and manly and just? Such things will have their reward.

5. Do you not know that every month the war was prolonged Union soldiers were sacrificed? If you, by your Fishing Creek camp meeting, your votes in Congress, your communications with rebel ambassadors and correspondence with rebel authorities encouraged them, did you not help, in that, to prolong the war? If so, can you evade the responsibility which attaches to so unpatriotic an act?

6. Have you ever repented of these wrong actions? Do you still feel that you did right in performing them? Is your conscience easy? And do you ask the votes of the people because you did these things, and are yet possessed of the spirit that inspired them; or are you regretful, and do you ask office on the plea that you are now a better man? If you are in the old spirit yet, you insult the intelligence of your countrymen; you do dishonor to the memory of our fallen braves; you wrong those who have photographs or portraits in their homes that are wreathed in perpetual mourning. The memories of those who bravely fell in the war, or died since from sickness or injury contracted in the service, are unspeakably precious to the American people. Every spring, the flowers of May are reverently spread over their graves. If you are possessed of the same spirit that possessed you during the war, your demand for office is an insult to those who felt its keen blasts. If repentant, retire from the candidacy. Your conduct is immodest. You have done enough to make it proper that you retire, for a time, from public sight. At all events we assure you you cannot be elected.

ONE of those romantic turns of Fortune's wheel which are necessary to the success of novels, but are generally wedged out of real life, is now before the world for its consideration and wonderment. The story has its beginning far back in the last century, and the scene is laid in Ireland, the dramatis personæ being actors of gentle blood to begin with. At that time the Moroney, of Milltown, in the County Clare, were the wealthiest and most influential family in all the region round, and "old Tom," as he was called, a perfect feudal lord, was at their head. He had three sons, Thomas, Robert and Frank Gould. The eldest received the estate, and had two sons, Thomas and Burdett, of whom Thomas died without issue and Burdett reigned in his stead. Burdett never had any legitimate children, but to one natural son he willed, contrary to law, his property, and this will has long been contested by a British army captain, son of deceased married sister of Burdett, the ruling members of the family not knowing of any other male heirs. But Robert Moroney, doomed to poverty and the navy by the law of entail, drifted away from the old estate and was soon lost sight of. He had one son, John Westhrop Moroney, who had married a wife beneath the station of his house and was not visited by any members. He died and left one son, Frank Valentine, who, with his mother, came to America, and he is now a stone-cutter in New York and the direct heir to $300,000, which a lawyer is looking after for him. He heard of his good fortune but a short time ago, but chisels away until his title will warrant his stepping into a higher position.

UNDER the new administration of Heligoland, its wicked, wrecking population, its gambling dens whose operations were tinctured with the deepest crimes, and its discreditable institutions of all kinds, are said to be reformed or rather transformed until the tight little island is the most respectable watering-place in Europe, and though a very small gem, one that Her Majesty is not ashamed to have universally konwn as belonging to her circlet of outlying possessions. The enterprise of the new Governor, one Col. Maxse, has inaugurated a new and unique celebration, or rather revived and intensified an old one, which is the complete illumination of the rocky island. It is remarkably full of picturesque caves which have been charged to the rabbits, but not properly to these libelled little beasts, for twenty-seven good reasons, it is said. The first is that no rabbits exist on the island, and never did, which is sufficient without enumerating the others, though if there were any their toe-nails would give way before the unyielding sandstone they undertook to excavate. However these caves came there, they were recently used by the Governor's orders for pyrotechnic purposes and lighted up all over the broken surface with hills of red, blue and yellow flames, platoons of rockets, bouquets of fireworks and parks of artillery, until the place was a roar of echoes and a dancing mountain of parti-colored and eccentric flames and flashes, while pleasure-seekers sailed around the circumference in gaily-decked boats enjoying the glorious spectacle.

THE three individuals before whose wills so large a portion of Europe bows are preparing to have a jolly time at Berlin on Thursday next. Fetes and shows of the glittering pyrotechnic and military order will woo them into a sense of their magnificence, and predispose them for the friendly chat which is to follow, whereat all Europe will stand agape. It is too bad that the respective heads of the houses of Romanoff, Hapsburg and Hohenzollern cannot meet for a little jollification without every diplomatic eye being turned on them. It is too bad; but being precisely done for effect, our pity does not run very deep. Apropos of this meeting, an Italian comic paper publishes a cartoon representing a design for a bust of the conference. It has one neck with three faces, which are excellent likenesses of the three Emperors, merging into one large forehead surmounted by an imperial crown. The satirical point of the design is that the bust has only two eyes, Francis Joseph of Austria, whose face is the centre one, being obliged to depend on Alexander of Russia for his right eye, and on William of Prussia for his left. Poor Austria.

THE troubles usually arising among husbands and wives, and which bring both before the courts, result from a violation of those sexual laws which punish the violators. Some men are easily fascinated with beauty, and stop not to see whether a fair form encloses an angel or a devil. There is a continual masquerade. All the follies, all the vices of both parties are carefully concealed. The real man and the real woman are only found out after it is too late. Then again, women love ease and luxury. Cash advances, hat in hand, and Cash conquers, for the nonce, all disgust, and subdues all opposition. Age, too, comes with houses and lands, and princely appointments, and young womanhood, made to unite only with young manhood and so reproduce itself, is borne to the altar by arms tremulous with fast-coming decay. Parents, and relatives, and friends, are not slow to call such matches excellent, when they are only accursed Lucifer matches lighted in hell.

THE imports of zinc or spelter during the financial year amounted to 11,389,537 blocks or pigs, and 7,164,035 sheets. The native base of zinc, made into the article of commerce known as spelter, is changed from the ore by means of retorts, instead of smelting, as in the case of other metals. Zinc paint is derived from the metal by means of reducing it to fine chippings and burning until consumed. The result is a pure white oxide of zinc, and known as zinc paint. Zinc is used largely in the manufacture of brass, and spelter is employed in galvanizing iron. Zinc white paint was first manufactured in this country in 1850, and the principal zinc mines are located in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Illinois and Missouri. The best spelter comes from Missouri, and a large quantity is imported from Silesia and Belgium. The United States exported last year 76,380 pounds of zinc.

CARELESS citizens who recommend candidates for appointments as policemen have present cause to reflect on the responsibility which they thus incur. There is every bad reason why certain stalwart and plausible petitioners should receive such appointments, and every good reason why they should not. A man who wants to be a blackmailer or a burglar ought never be allowed to wear the shield of a policeman; yet within a few days we have had tidings of apoliceman in New York who derived the principal part of his income from burglaries, and of another policeman who regularly extracted considerabe sums from females who thus purchased leave to walk the metropolitan streets in search of their silly prey. This is fine news for property-owners and other reputable citizens who supposed they had a disciplined, watched and winnowed municipal police.

THE Workingmen's Science College, shortly to be erected in the centre of Birmingham, England, on ground purchased by Josiah Mason, the donor of funds for the establishment, provides instructions in mathematics, physics, chemistry, the natural sciences, geology, metallurgy, botany, zoology, physiology, the English, French and German languages, mechanical drawing, and architecture. No lectures or teaching are permitted on political or theological questions. While no person is to be admitted to the benefit of the institution who is not dependent upon his own skill or labor, the poorer classes are not to have any exclusive right to instruction in the College.

ONE of the meanest rascalities recently brought to light is that of an assistant physician in the San Francisco General Hospital, who has been in the habit of reducing the strength of the mixtures ordered for the patients, by confiscating a portion of the medicine and selling it to outside parties.

MINNEAPOLIS papers boast of a family, whose name they do not give, and whom they claim had a servant girl burnt badly while kindling a fire with kerosene. There was $10 due her when the accident occurred, and, after keeping her three days, they turned her out, first deducting $7 for oil, flour, molasses, and board during the time she remained with them after the accident.

A DETROITER lost a pocket-book with seven cents in it and went daily to the police station for a week to learn if any tidings had come of it. Finally the sergeant, tired of his questionings, gave him seven cents, which he received thankfully, remarking, "I tell you it made me feel bad, as I saw the poor-house looming up before me!"

VERY important is it that we should know that the Mikado of Japan has donned civilized clothes, and that he now wears an English dress-coat of blue broadcloth; so important, indeed, that the fact is sent all the way by telegraph through India, and by Atlantic cable. With a true stroke of genius the newsmongers leave us in a state of restless anxiety as regards the Mikado's trousers.

THERE are now in the jail in the District of Columbia, nine persons charged with murder, eight of whom have been imprisoned within the past two months. Five of the murders were by the pistol and two by the knife, the remaining case being that of a colored woman, who, knife in hand, chased a man about a steamboat, swearing she would kill him. Thus frightened he jumped among the machinery where he was killed.

MOSES SYDENHAM, of Fort Kearny, Neb., publishes a paper having for its object the removal of the National Capital to that city. He proposes, if Congress will pass the necessary law and give him the agency for the disposal of ten thousand sections of land adjacent to the present reservation of ten miles square, to "build all the necessary public buildings for the use of Congress and the departments, in the most substantial manner."

IT is said that the ladies of Turkey are assuming their right to discard the close veil by which their beauties have so long been hidden from the world, and that high-born Osman damsels now dress in perfect Parisian toilettes, the thinnest possible filament of gauze throwing a softening shade over the features, without in the least concealing them, and the ferigi or mantle lying loosely upon the shoulders, as obviously a mere formal appendage now to the costume of which it once constituted the principal feature.

THE English agricultural papers are lamenting over the almost entire failure of the fruit crop in that country. It is stated that the crop of apples, pears and even the smaller fruits, is the smallest ever known there. The cause is attributed to the severe weather in March and April, which is believed to have injured the trees and fruit buds. There were heavy frosts later in the season, which destroyed the blossoms on trees that had escaped the winter. This presents a remarkable contrast with the fruit crop in the United States, which is one of unusual abundance.

AT ONE of the inquests most lately held in Whitechapel, London, the jury called attention to the disgraceful state of the shells in which paupers are buried. One gentleman said that they were nothing better than egg boxes painted black, and he wished to know how much longer such a state of things was to last. Another juryman said that he had served on many coroner's inquiries in the district, and always found the shells in the same horrible condition, and it was a great wonder that the weight of the bodies did not break through the rotten boards. The coroner acquiesced in what had been said, and a resolution was passed to make a complaint to the parish authorities forthwith.

GENTLEMEN'S FASHIONS.

A Peep at the Coming Style.

London has always filled for men the position that Paris does for ladies, and fashions for the sterner sex inaugurated there have always found their way out to this western world in the end. The New York Mail has advices of a change in the costume of the London fashionables which is quite interesting as an indication of what is coming. The correspondent says:

The style of dress most worn here by gentlemen of fashion, and especially noticeable at all fashionable places of morning resort, is a light colored frock coat, usually a drab or gray twilled cassimere or fine angola, rather long in the waist and skirt, silk breast facing and bound with silk ribbon to match, or a velvet collar, plain facings and double-stitched edges, and to wear buttoned with three buttons. Waistcoat, a white or striped marseilles, and trowsers of a dark blue diagonal or ribbed "worsted" cloth with a broad black mohair braid laid on flat on the seams. This is decidedly reversing the order of the dress, dark coat and light trowsers, to which the habits of the last few years have accustomed us, but is nevertheless a very stylish and effective costume, especially adapted to and certain to be much worn during the early autumn. A large "Stanley" or tied sailor's knot is usually worn, the made sailor's knot appearing to have gone out of fashion. Patent leather Oxford shoes with brown striped hose and buttoned boots of the same leather, with cloth uppers, are much affected. Morning coats are all made to wear two or even three buttons, buttoned and cut away sharp from the lowest one, but the style is very difficult to adapt with good effect to many figures. The latest styles of dress coats are noticeable for an entire absence of all angles, the collar forming a complete roll, usually fenced with silk the lower front edge of the forepart, which is made without what is technically called a "back strap," and the top and bottom of the skirt being slightly and gracefully rounded off, which gives the coat a lighter and more elegant apearance than the old style, and is a step towards that more appropriate and consistent style of evening dress for gentlemen so much to be desired.

THERE is now in England a Committee on Habitual Drunkards, which has discussed at great length and reported upon its interesting subject, maintaining, of course, that drunkenness is on the increase, although recently published statistics show that it is noticeably decreasing in so great a centre of population as London. Among other recommendations made by this Committee is one by which an habitual drunkard—that is, one who has been convicted of the offence of public intoxication three times within twelve months—shall be compelled to find sureties for his future good behavior. How practical a provision this is may be seen when one thinks that a drunkard, when the "fit is on," will sacrifice himself, his honor, his family, and everything else to the gratification of his passion. Would he be likely, then to be deterred by the thought that a friend will haye to pay £10 for his spree? Nearly all the recommendations of the Committee are marked by the same lack of knowledge of human nature which this one displays.

A NEW PERIL for wealthy bachelors has appeared out West. An unmarried man, who had made a fortune in Montana, went East to spend a year with his friends. During his absence, a widow in Montana filed a bill for divorce and alimony, on the plea of desertion. The defendant not appearing, a large part of his property was given to the pretended wife. On his return to Montana, the victim filed a bill in chancery to set aside the divorce proceedings, swearing that he had never seen or heard of the woman; but the Judge decided it was too late and the designing widow keeps her ill-gotten gains.

SENATOR NYE recently had a narrow escape. While returning from Carson to Lake Tahoe, Nevada, in driving down a mountain grade he overtook a heavy freight wagon, the driver of which crowded his train to one side of the narrow road, and halted there to make room for the passage of the carriage. As the carriage got almost abreast of the pole-team on the freight wagon, the long string of mules became restive, swung around into the road and started, upsetting the carriage, throwing Senator Nye in front of the forward wheels of the freight wagon. So narrow was the escape that one half turn more of the ponderous wheels would have crushed him into a shapeless mass.

A MAGNIFICENT FEE.

A Young Physician Falls Heir to $100,000—Startling Result of an Adventure in a Chicago Depot—What Came of Being Kind to a Scotch Baby.

[From the Chicago Inter-Ocean.]

The old saw that "'Tis better to be born lucky than be born rich" finds a remarkable illustration in the case of a young physician of this State, who, unless report belies him, has stumbled accidentally into the possession of such a fortune as but rarely falls to one man in a generation. His name is T. L. Matchett, and he resides somewhere in the central part of Illinois. The story of his good luck is, to say the least, a marvelous one. Our information is derived from a gentleman who is traveling through this section in the interest of a business house, and who was in the city yesterday. He is a friend of the fortunate physician, who, it appears, is not yet aware of his unexpected elevation to wealth. We give the tale as it fell from the traveler's lips.

In the month of September, 1865, Mr. Matchett, then a resident of Springfield, Ill., was passing through Chicago, and while waiting for the train at the Burlington & Quincy depot, he saw a lady with a child in her arms, also waiting for a train. The lady was apparently a stranger in the land, and seemed to have no escort. While still in the depot the child, a little girl, was seized with a sudden and violent sickness, and the mother was seriously alarmed. Mr. Matchett gallantly rushed to her assistance, took care of the child, and happening to be well informed in regard to infantile complaints, he succeeded in restoring it to health before the train started. His timely act of assistance, coupled with the tender and friendly manner in which it was rendered, completely won the lady's heart, and she was profuse in her expressions of gratitude. But at this moment the train came, and the young man, bidding her a hasty adieu, jumped into a car and was off. The lady, before departing on another train, made inquiries concerning him, and found out all about Mr. Matchett, and where he lived. And then she jumped into a car and was off.

Here endeth the first chapter of the romance. Passing over the intervening pages, which are a perfect blank, we rush at once to the denouement. A few months ago the lady died in the town of Aberdeen, Scotland, and in her will she bequeathed to her benefactor the handsome fortune of £20,000. It is said that the money is already deposited in some Eastern bank awaiting its claimant.

Such is, in substance, the strange story related by the commercial gentleman. Should it prove to be founded on fact, Dr. Matchett, wherever he is, has reason to be grateful for encountering that blessed lady. If he is married, and is the father of a promising boy, he had better send the lad at once to Mareschal College, Aberdeen, to be educated. There a new romance might naturally grow out of the old one. The little girl would now be about seven years old.

THE United Presbyterian Society has established several mission schools for girls at Cairo, in Egypt. A girl belonging to one of these schools attracted the notice of the Maharajen Duhleep Sihgh, and was married to him in June, 1864. The happy husband has celebrated the anniversary of his marriage ever since by sending, on its recurrence, a check for five thousand dollars to the mission school where he found his bride. The last installment of the annual recognition was received last June. It is safe to infer that the Maharajen is fully satisfied with his bargain, and the mission school is doubtless equally well satisfied with the substantial token of his happiness, which it is its good luck to receive. Clergymen will not object to this way of celebrating marriage anniversaries, if the thank-offerings were bestowed upon those who officiated on the happy occasions.

A PERJURY CASE.

A Farmer Recovers Judgment Against a Neighbor, and is then Sent to Prison for Five Years.

A trial has been in progress in Salem for the past week which has attracted considerable attention. Judge Leslie, of Saratoga county, presided. It appears that a man named Conant some time ago sold a cow to a farmer of Union village, named George S. Wood, representing that it was in a healthy condition. It proved to be diseased, and Wood instituted a suit against Conant for slander, the latter having said that the former sold diseased beef. He recovered damages to the extent of $400. This week Wood was placed on trial for perjury, having sworn falsely during the suit for slander. It is believed that he and six of his relatives have perjured themselves, for out of the fifty witnesses sworn, they were in direct opposition to twenty, and also to the records of the Court at the previous trial, the records of the lawyers and of everybody else. The jury in the case came in at 2½ o'clock this morning, sent for the Court, and announced a verdict of "guilty." Wood was then sentenced to five years' confinement in the State Prison. He never flinched because of the verdict or the punishment, but his relatives, and his mother in particular, created considerable disturbance. The latter burst out with a harangue of some length, exclaiming, "Oh, you wicked men! How dare you convict my son upon such a pack of lies?" Subsequently the family seemed to realize the real position in which Wood was placed, and gave vent to their feelings in expressions of genuine sorrow.—Troy (N. Y.) Times.

TRUSSES.

Every kind of Trusses for the cure of Rupture may be obtained at Dr. Keyser's establishment, No. 167 Liberty street. It is a matter of the greatest consequence that all who are ruptured should be properly fitted with a suitable truss, and one that will keep the ruptured parts in their place. Many persons do not know when they are ruptured, and frequently years are allowed to pass by before anything is done.

This is a great error, and one that is often paid for at the epxense of the person's life.

Rupture is too serious an injury to be treated with lightness or neglect, especially when the means for its relief and cure are so easily obtained. Children and young persons are easily cured, with the improved appliances which are constantly being added to the great variety which Dr Keyser always has on hand.

Dr Keyser's office, 167 Liberty street, from 10 A. M. until 1 P. M., and from 3 to 6, and on Saturdays at night.

DAILY GAZETTE.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
TUESDAY, September 3, 1872.

The beautiful days of autumn, the glory of the year, which are now blessing the country with their genial influence, have a good effect upon financial as well as other matters. Local monetary affairs maintain a healthy aspect, and the outlook to-day presented to the view no uninviting features. The general disposition in this community towards confidence in future operations and the ability of those making engagements coming up to the point is very marked at the present time. The activity upon the streets during the past two days gives evidence that the fall trade has fully opened up, and the general desire upon the part of purchasers to buy, and that not sparingly, would seem to warrant the thought that they have come to the conclusion that prices will not recede at least until the present stock is exhausted and a new one makes its advent upon the market for disposal. There are but three exceptions that refer to the above in the way of merchandise generally, and they are manufactured iron, nails and steel. The advance in these articles makes buyers very cautious in making any purchases except what are necessary for immediate manipulations.

As to money at other points, the directors of the Bank of England did nothing at their meeting on Saturday with the discount rate, the minimum of which remains unaltered at 3½ per cent. The bullion account showed a nominal gain. The new French loan has advanced to a premium of 4¼. In Boston money is quoted at from 6 to 8¼ per cent; in New York from 2 to 9 per cent; in Chicago plenty at from 7 to 8 per cent; in Philadelphia from 6 to 8 per cent.

In local securities a sale of twenty-seven shares of Merchants and Manufacturers National Bank stock at 71 is reported. Allegheny Valley Railroad securities are eliciting considerable attention from capitalists, and it will be no surprise to operators to see a material advance in the price of them within a short time.

Real estate active, and the amount of transfers this week promises to be very large.

NEW YORK, September 3, 1872.

Money, after loaning at 6, declined to 3 per cent. Some of the banks are shipping currency, one having sent $150,000 to St. Louis to-day, and another having received orders for $250,000, of which $200,000 was for Chicago. Sterling heavy and lower at 108½. Gold quiet at 113⅛@113¼. Loans 1-32@1 per cent. for use. Clearings $48,000,000. The Treasury disbursed $188,000. Governments quiet and steady. State bonds are dull. Stocks opened steady and so continued until after 3 P. M., when it was announced the Pacific Mail steamer America had been burned in the harbor at Yokohama, when Pacific Mail declining 2⅝ per cent; balance of list sympathized, declined one-half per cent.; Delaware and Lackawanna declined 2¼ per cent., on report that the company would pass their next dividend. Rock Island, C. C. & I. C., and Union Pacific were best sustained. Market closed steady.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
TUESDAY September 3, 1872.

BUTTER—There is a steady demand for the better grades, and we now quote prime to choice at 20@22 cts. Low grade butter is in good supply, and there is not much call for it.

BROOM CORN—Is more active but there is no improvement in prices; we can report sales within the last week of two cars of very common at 3½ cts; and 5 cars in different lots at 4 to 7 cts. according to quality; a considerable part of this was sold to go out of the market.

BEANS—$2,50@3 per bushel.

CEMENT—Louisville Cement, $2 to $2,50 per bbl; Rosendale, $4 to $4,25; French's Calcined Plaster, $4@4,50; Land Plaster, $2,50@3. Perrysburg Lime, $1,75@$2.

CHEESE—Continues very firm and we advance our quotations half a cent again as follows; Dairy, 12@12½; Factory, 13@13½; Goshen, 14@14½. Sweitzer 15 to 17 cts. as to quality.

CARBON OIL—Is unchanged; 19¾@20 cts. by the car load, and 1@2 cts. additional for smaller lots.

CONCENTRATED LYE—$5,50 per case.

COUNTRY LARD—Sales at 8¼ to 9 cts,

FRUITS—The supply of Apples is very much reduced, we mean in the hands of commission men; however, there are enough being brought in by the farmers from the adjoining country to meet the demand, and prices are not much better, and furthermore, are not likely to be, as there is a very large crop. Quotations may be given at 75 cents to $1,50 per bbl. Peaches, $1,50@2,50 per box. Plums, $3,50@5 per bush. Grapes, 5 to 7 cents per lb. Watermelons, $15 to $25 per hundred, according to size and quality.

EGGS—We can report a continued good demand with sales of fresh to-day at 20 to 21 cents.

FLOUR—Is steady and if anything a shade stronger under the influence of late advices from Liverpool, but there is no material increase in the demand and no change to note in prices. We continue to quote spring wheat flours at $7,50@8 for fair to choice Wisconsins; $8,25 for choice Minnesotas; and $8,25@8,50 for fair to choice red winter wheat. Rye flour $5,50 and dull.

GRAIN—There is scarcely as much inquiry for Wheat as there has been; the demand from country mills seems to be falling off, and the mills here are taking hold sparingly, and want to buy very low; hence the market for dealers is unsatisfactory, but it will probably take a turn for the better soon. Prices, however, are without quotable change; and we continue to quote at $1,60@1,65 for fair to prime red, and $1,70@1,75 for prime to choice amber. Old Oats in limited supply, in good demand and a shade higher; we now quote at at 41 to 43 cts, as to quality. The arrivals of new Oats thus far have been light and mostly very common in point of quality; sales at 35 to 40 cts as to quality and condition. Shelled Corn continues quiet and unchanged; 57 to 58 cts—there was a sale the other day of 10,000 bushels, to a distiller on private terms. Ear Corn is quiet and but little doing, except in a jobbing way. Rye is still quoted at 80 to 85 cts, buying and selling. The weather having become much cooler, it is probable that brewers will soon commence to buy Barley; as yet the receipts from the adjoining country, have been very small, and there are no established prices.

GROCERIES—There is no improvement to note in trade, and the market presents no new feature that have not already been noticed. Refined Sugars are firm, while raws are very dull. Coffee is week but unchanged.

SUGARS—Granulated 13¼; Crushed 13¼; Powdered 13¼; "A" Coffee, 12; B, 11⅞; Extra C. syrups, 65; good, 55; fair, 50; common, 35@40; blackstrap, 25.

MOLASSES—Stock of New Orleans almost exhausted: choice may be quoted at 85; prime, 80.

RICE.—Carolina, 9½@9¾; Rangoon, 7⅞@8; Patna, 8 to 8¼.

COFFEE.—Fancy, 24½; prime, 23¼, good, 22½; fair, 22; roasted. 25.

SYRUPS.—Fancy drips, 70; white; choice 11¾; Circle C, 11¼; Chespeake Ex C 11¼; Knights, Ex C, 10¼; C, Yellow, 9¼.

HAY—Is in rather better supply, and the market in consequence is a shade easier; we now quote fair to prime baled at $28 to $33 per ton, according to quality and condition.

LARD OIL—No. 1 Extra is still quoted at 73 to 75 cts in a jobbing way.

ONIONS—Quiet and lower; we now quote at $2,50@3,00 per bbl.

POULTRY—Sales of spring chickens at 45 to 55 cts per pair, as to size.

POTATOES—Quiet and unchanged at $1,50@2,00 per bbl. Sweet Potatoes in steady demand at $5,50@6 per bbl for Baltimore, and $7@7,50 for Jerseys.

PROVISIONS—Plain Shoulders, 8⅞c; Sugar cured Shoulders, 11c; Breakfast Bacon, 14c. Rib Sides, 11; ClearRib Sides, 11½; Clear Sides, 12c; Sugar Cured Hams, 17½c; Dried Beef, 20c. Lard, in tierces, 10½c; half bbls, 10¾c; pails, 11½c. Mess Pork, $16,00.

SEEDS—Timothy Seed is still quoted at $3½ to $3¾ per bushel, and Flax Seed at $1,75@1,80.

TALLOW—Unchanged at 8 to 8¼.

WHISKY—Highwines unchanged at 95@96 cts, in a jobbing way.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
TUESDAY, September 3, 1872.

Trade continues very quiet and the market in a general way is devoid of anything especially new or important. Refined for immediate delivery is firmer and a shade higher; no quotations for futures; spot quoted at 23@23½, an advance of ¼ to ⅜ of a cent per gallon, within the past few days. Crude is quiet and unchanged: $3,30@3,32½ per bbl. at Parker; equal to about 8.75@8.80 cents per gallon. Oil barrels unchanged at $1,70@1,75 for country, and $1,80@1,85 for city.

The Refiners Association is reported to be working smoothly and satisfactorily, and its friends are very sanguine of its ultimate success.

Lumber.

Relative to the condition of the lumber trade in Saginaw Valley, the Bay City Journal, of Thursday, says:

Lumber is still firm, but, for the past week or two, no advance in prices is reported. Within a week we have reported the sale of nearly 4,000,000 feet for $7@13@35, but it must be remembered in this connection that it was mostly bought in large lots and on close figures for other parties. Manufacturers are holding lumber a little higher than the figures quoted above, and in many instances lumber has been sold, in small lots, for as high as $8@15@37@42. A medium between the two prices quoted can be relied upon as the standard.

RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to recede steadily at this point, with twenty-four inches in the channel, by the metal marks, last evening. Weather clear and pleasant.

No arrivals or departures excepting the Monongahela packets, and business on this stream is steadily improving. Navigation is still suspended on the Ohio river.

—We clip the following from the Sioux City Journal of Thursday last:

The Far West passed Sully going up at daylight on Tuesday, and the Nellie Peck passed the same post at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day. The Far West left here on Tuesday evening, 20th inst., and the Nellie on Thursday afternoon, 22d inst., or about 45 hours later. The report from Sully indicates that there was say 12 hours between the two boats, showing that the Nelly had gained 33 hours on her formidable rival. Heretofore the West has shown her stern to the Nelly in a very provoking manner, but Capt. Marsh still insists that he has the fastest boat on the river, and takes this trip to demonstrate that under certain circumstances he can run away from Mart Coulson in spite of himself.

—The St. Louis Globe says: Gen. Nathan Ranney built the steamer Ceylon, at Pittsburgh, in 1837. She was plying between that port and New Orleans, and on her down trip was burned at the mouth of Salt River. The General was not on board that trip, having been left at New Orleans sick with yellow fever, which raged with terrible fatality that year in New Orleans.

—The insurance companies of Vicksburg deny any responsibility in the sinking of the Merchants' Wharfboat at that place, claiming that their risk ceased when the merchandise left the boat.

—The Anna will be run from Portsmouth to Pittsburgh as soon as there is water enough. Capt. Dawson Davis will probably command her.

—Capt. Frank Morgan has sold his one-eighth interest in the Fannie Dugan to Capt. McAllister; terms private. Capt. John McAllister will resume command.

—The steamer Minnie, under the flag of the K. C., St. J. & C. B. Railroad, is bucking at the Mountaineer between St. Joseph and Peru, on the Missouri River.

—A dispatch from Cairo, Saturday, says the Tom Jasper and John F. Tolle are aground at Greenfield's, with the Katie P. Kountz lightening the latter over the bar.

—The Storm sunk two coal flats on her way down, at Goose Island. One of the barges lies crossways in the channel. Pilots have to keep to the Virginia side of the bar.

—Wharfmaster Davidson, at Ashland, has notified boats that he would proceed to collect wharfage, dating from Aug. 25th.

—Monitor Furnace, opposite Ashland, is to be sold on the 17th inst.

THE Chicago, Danville & Vincennes RAILROAD

Is the shortest line between Chicago and the BLOCK COAL region of Indiana. The importance and success of the road is proved by the fact that since its being opened to coal traffic in January last, it has earned a handsome dividend upon its stock, beside interest on its bonds.

The First Mortgage 7 per cent. Gold Bonds issued by this Company, to an amount of less than $19,000 per mile, have been sold very rapidly during the past few months to Trust Companies, Savings Banks, and the most careful investors. Only a small amount of the loan remains unsold.

The Bonds are for $1,000 each and have thirty years to run. Interest payable April and October. Present price 90 and accrued interest. At present premium on gold, they pay nearly 9 per cent. upon the investment.

ARKANSAS STATE LOAN.

A Limited Number Offered at 70 CENTS AND ACCRUED INTEREST.

These Bonds were issued under act of the Legislature for the purpose of assisting the "Arkansas Central Railway," in accordance with Section 6 of the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, which provides as follows: "The credit of the State or counties shall never be loaned for any purpose without the consent of the people thereof expressed through the ballot box," which act was submitted to the people at the general election held in November, 1868, and unanimously ratified by them. The Legislature of the State has no power to grant any additional aid whatever, consequently the debt of the State cannot be increased except by amending the Constitution through a vote of the whole people.

As an additional security, these Bonds are guaranteed by the Arkansas Central Railway by special indorsement, recorded as a mortgage in every county through which the line passes, acting as a direct lien upon the property of the Company, its Real Estate, Rolling Stock and Franchises.

It is recited in every bond: "The faith and credit of this State are hereby solemnly and irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest and the redemption of the principal of this bond."

Every possible safeguard surrounds them to protect the holder from the dangers of corruption and fraud.

Unlike ordinary Railway Bonds, those now offered are negotiable at any time on the New York Stock Exchange, as may be observed from the daily stock quotations.

The Bonds are of the denominations of $1000 each, payable to bearer, and are therefore negotiable by simple delivery. The interest coupons attached to each bond are payable semi-annually at the office of the Union Trust Co., in New York, by the Treasurer of the State, on the 1st day of October and April in each year, until the principal of the Bonds are redeemed at par in 1900. Address,

In the City.

We had the pleasure of meeting, yesterday, our old friend Mr. B. B. Vincent, a prominent citizen of Erie. Mr. Vincent is stopping at the Central Hotel. He was a co-proprietor of one of the large elevators destroyed by the fire at Chicago, and is now engaged in rebuilding on a new site, having sold to Wm. Thaw, Esq., of this city, for railroad purposes, the ground on which the former one stood.

Amusements.

Another crowded house greeted the manager of the American Theater last evening. The attractions offered at this place excels anything ever offered at any variety theater in this city. Mr. Aims has started out with the determination that the American Theater shall be the great place of attraction. It certainly is now. A matinee will be given this afternoon, when the entire list of stars will appear.

Obituary.

The many friends of Mr. James L. Dunseath will hear with feelings of sorrow of the death of his wife, which occurred yesterday at noon. She was but in the morning of life, but for some time had been a sufferer. A few months ago she went to California for the benefit of her health, but the trip failed to result beneficially, and she returned home a few weeks ago; from that time she gradually failed, until at last the summons came.

The deceased was a most estimable Christian woman, who had attracted around her many warm friends, and was held in esteem wherever known, her death will be the source of general sorrow in many circles in which she had been a leader and where her friendship was always highly prized.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at three o'clock, from the residence of her husband at Roup's Station.

BROKE HIS NECK.

A Man Falls from a Wagon—Instant Death.

Last night about ten o'clock Mr. Thomas Tschudy, of Allegheny, met with a instant and terrible death. He was driving along in his wagon on the Perrysville Plank Road just inside the city limits when an obstruction in the road caused him to be jostled from his seat to the ground. He fell on his head and with such force that his neck was broken. The body was discovered laying on the road soon after the accident, and taken into Dierstein's saloon where a physician was summoned, but an examination showed the extent of his injury, which had produced instant death.

Tschudy was a brewer and had an establishment in Pleasant Valley, Second ward, Allegheny.

SAD CASE.

Pitiable Condition of a Family

Yesterday morning an old couple were arrested in Allegheny for drunkenness and sent to the Work House. Their place of residence was discovered to be on East street, and as it was known that several children had been left at home, the officers went on a tour of inspection. They found the children—five in all—in a state of filth and misery that would have put to shame the most degraded denizens of the Five Points. They were all quite young, and the oldest said their mother and father had been drinking all the time for several weeks. The children had not enough clothing to cover them, and apparently had not touched water for several weeks. The house was correspondingly filthy.

The officers found some old clothing, and wrapped in them the children were taken to the Home for the Friendless, where they were kindly cared for.

FRIGHTFUL RUNAWAY.

A Gentleman and Lady Narrowly Escape Death.

Last night about half past eight o'clock as Mr. W. G. Dunseath, the Fifth avenue jeweler, was passing down Fifth avenue in a buggy with his wife, the animal attached to the vehicle became unmanageable, and started off in a gallop. The horse continued from Smithfield street down the avenue, and when just opposite the Exchange Bank it veered to one side, the wheel of the buggy struck the curb and there was an upset. The horse continued his flight, but was stopped after he had attempted to pass through the show window of Degelman & Black's store.

The occupants of the buggy had been thrown with great violence to the ground. Mr. Dunseath escaped with a few slight bruises, but his wife was severely injured by the shock and by several wounds about the face. A physician was summoned and dressed her wounds, which though severe are not serious.

COUNTY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Regular Monthly Meeting.

A regular meeting of the Allegheny County Republican Executive Committee was held yesterday afternoon, Dr. Cross in the chair. The attendance was very large.

The regular reports were heard from standing committees, as follows: Finance, Mr. Reese; Meetings and Speakers, Mr. Montooth; Documents, Mr. Onslow; Printing, Mr. Anderson; Music, Mr. Mathews; Military Committee, Gen. Pearson; Torchlight Procession and Mass Convention, Dr. Gilmore. These reports were all of an encouraging character, showing the progress of the canvass to be all that could be expected. Reports were read from the chairman of the Democratic Committee relative to the appointment of supervisors, and treatment of the rowdy element on occasion of processions, as well as with reference to the prevention of fraudulent voting at the ensuing election, and were referred to appropriate committees.

Reports were heard from members from the country districts showing that Republicans everywhere are alive to the issues of the day and preparing to give a good account for Grant, Wilson and Hartranft.

On motion, adjourned.

Subsequently to the meeting of the general committee, the Soldiers' committee and that preparing for the torch-light procession met and continued the work under their charge.

"NOT FOR JOSEPH."

A Dem-Lib Marching Corps—A Captain Needed—Who Will Fill the Vacancy—How the Honor! was Declined.

The Ninth ward Democracy already have met with a great sorrow; Monday evening they assembled to consider the "National situation" and to organize a marching corps. This latter herculean feat was finally accomplished and elated with their success the Dem-Libs resolved with great unanimity to honor? an old-liner Mr. James Mercer with the Captaincy. A committee was appointed to wait upon the gentleman and inform him of the favor with which he had been regarded, and in pursuance of their duties they "dropped around" to his home to acquaint him with their action.

Mr. Mercer was at home and received his visitors blandly. The spokesman proceeded in his little speech to say that "he was extremely happy to inform Mr. Mercer of the honor which had been conferred upon him in his unanimous election to the captaincy of the Ninth ward corps." The [illegible] honored individual cordially reciprocated the [illegible] of the address and expressed his pleasure at the hono[illegible] conferred by saying: "Gentlemen it gives me pleasure [illegible] to thank you for your self-sacrifice. I have always been a member of the party. [Cheers.] But next October I shall vote for Hartranft, and in November for Grant and Wilson."

The committee seemed moved by the same spirit—first of blank dismay and then of a desire to withdraw—the latter purpose being accomplished quickly, but in a somewhat confused awe-stricken manner. And they are yet looking for a captain for that corps.

THE ALLEGHENY SCHOOLS.

Meeting of the Board of Controllers—New Teachers Elected—Reply from His Honor to the Secretary—The Colored School Question, Etc., Etc.

Last night the Board of School Controllers of Allegheny held a regular monthly meeting in the Common Council Chamber, city building.

At eight o'clock President King being still absent, on motion of Mr. Barker, Mr. D. L. Smith, of the Third ward, was called to the chair. Prayer was offered by Mr. Eaton. The minutes were read and approved.

NEW TEACHERS CHOSEN.

The Fourth ward reported the resignation of Miss Fannie Boggs, and the election of Miss C. C. Thompson to fill the vacancy. The election was approved.

The Sixth Ward Board reported the election of Miss Emma Stewart as teacher in the primary department. Confirmed.

The Third Ward Board reported the election of the Misses Annie McCracken, Nettie Black and Fannie Orr. Election confirmed.

ANNUAL REPORTS.

Mr. Eaton, from the Committee on Colored Schools presented their annual report, showing that during the year four teachers had been employed; that 272 scholars were enrolled, with an average attendance of 224. The evening school had been attended by a large number of pupils of both sexes.

The report concluded with a review of the oppression of the colored race, and a parallel between the ability of white and colored pupils, in which it was contended that the white race had no advantage.

Mr. Parke from the Committee on Printing, reported that they had awarded the contract for printing the annual report to Messrs. Bakewell & Marthens.

The Secretary read the annual report of the Committee on Mute school, expressing their satisfaction at the success which had attended the school, and the benefits which had accrued to the pupils. There were thirty-six pupils in the school, fourteen of which were from Allegheny. The ages of the pupils ranged from nine to seventeen years, and the cost of their instruction during the year amounted to $340.

Mr. Marthens presented the annual report of the Committee on School Inspection. The Committee in their work had adopted the plan of "printed questions." In many respects the inspection proved a success, and convinced the Committee that many of the pupils were making satisfactory and rapid progress, and that also some of the teachers had improved in [illegible] the [illegible] of reading [illegible] in [illegible] and grammar [illegible] was [illegible]. In geography it was apparent that sufficient attention had not been paid to the study.

[illegible] reports were received and ordered to be published in the annual report of the Board.

A bill of $17 for cleaning colored school building was presented and a warrant ordered.

THOSE LIQUOR FINES.

The Secretary read a communication from His Honor the Mayor, setting forth that his attention had been called to the fact that his predecessor had paid into the Treasury of the School Board fines from persons convicted of drunkenness. His Honor stated that he had made diligent search and found that there was a law which provided for the payment of this money into the School Board Treasury, but that it conflicted with a city ordinance which ordered that the money be paid into the City Treasury. He had been acting under this ordinance, and would continue to do so, but that hereafter he would classify the fines, so as to show those from convicted drunkards, and that the Board and the City Treasurer could settle the matter between them.

The communication was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Donaldson offered a resolution for a suspension of the rules and a change of the regulations so as to provide for the opening of the night schools on the second Monday of November, instead of the time now prescribed. The gentleman explained that he desired to avoid the interference that would result by the excitement of the political campaign.

The resolution was adopted.

THE COLORED SCHOOLS.

Mr. Marthens presented the following:

WHEREAS, It appears that all of our colored fellow-citizens are not satisfied with what this Board has done for their benefit, in the erection of an excellent school house and the employment of a corps of superior teachers for their exclusive benefit; and

WHEREAS, Legal measures have been instituted by some of the dissatisfied; now

Resolved, By this Board of Controllers, that we desire to have no controversy on this subject with our colored fellow-citizens.

Resolved, therefore, That we abandon the Sherman avenue schools, and that the building and grounds be sold, and the proceeds be placed in the treasury of this Board, and that the colored children be hereafter admitted to the common schools of the wards to which they respectively belong.

Mr. Donaldson moved to indefinitely postpone the matter.

The Chairman stated that the matter was out of order, as the law of the Commonwealth provided that whenever there were a sufficient number of colored people that a school building be erected and a school established.

Mr. Marthen said there was a law higher than the law of the Commonwealth and that was an United States law. The Constitution had been amended, and the colored people recognized as citizens, with citizens rights among which was the right to enjoy the advantages of the ward schools. The question had already been raised in the Fifth ward, and as there could be only one way of settling it, he thought they might just as well face the music at once. He would therefore move to lay the matter over under the rules for one month.

Mr. Donaldson thought that it might as well be settled at once. If the colored people insisted upon their demand to be accommodated in their wards, he would vote for the sale of the Sherman avenue schools, and then, so far as his ward was concerned, would, with his colleagues, establish a separate school—not as good a one as the Sherman avenue—in his ward. That was all they could demand. They could not demand admission to any particular building, but the law would be complied with when they were supplied with room and teachers.

The resolution was then laid over until the next meeting.

THE LIBRARY.

The Secretary read a resolution instructing the Committee on Library to consult with the Committee on City Property, to ascertain if some compromise could not be arrived at by which the Library could retain possession of the room now occupied, and in case that could not be done, that the Committee be instructed to make inquiries in reference to some other suitable, and to report location and terms at the next meeting.

Some discussion ensued upon the resolution, and some of the members began to manifest a belligerent spirit in reference to the threatened action of Council to dispossess the Library of its present quarters, but the Board finally concluded that "fair compromise was better than war," and the resolution as originally presented was adopted.

On motion adjourned.

THE "EXTRA" POLICE.

The Controller Refuses to Certify Warrants—The Mayor in a Dilemma—How He Decided the Case—Twenty-nine Men Discharged.

Some time ago it will be remembered the Committee on Retrenchment and Reform, of City Councils, in their investigations discovered that there were twenty-nine men more on the police force than had been ordered by Councils, and that these "extras" had been appointed by the Police Committee, the appointments being made at the urgent solicitation of citizens and property owners, especially in the outer wards. The Retrenchment and Reform Committee, however, though recognizing the necessity of the increase, did not so regard its legality and decided to so report to Councils. The Police Committee held their meeting on Monday afternoon, and as usual certified to warrants for the payment of the "extras" as well as the regular force—supposing that everything would move along as usual, at least until Council had duly considered the matter. In this, however, they made a mistake, for the Controller—being informed that he was responsible for all the money paid out to the extras unless they were authorized by Councils—refused to assume the pressure, and so notified Mayor Blackmore yesterday morning in a note which read as follows:

CITY CONTROLLER'S OFFICE,
PITTSBURG, Sept. 4, 1872.

Hon. James Blackmore, Mayor of the City:

DEAR SIR: Whereas the police force under your control at present exceded the number authorized by the ordinances—said number being one hundred and thirty-two men and four lamp washers—I shall feel it to be my duty to confine myself to the payment of that number, and no more, until the force is increased by ordinance.

Respectfully yours,
R. J. McGOWAN,
Controller City of Pittsburg.

The Mayor naturally didn't appreciate the responsibility thus thrown upon him, of either paying the men out of his own pocket or discharging them, but finally called the police together, explained the action of the Committee on Retrenchment and Reform, and the decision of the Controller, and then stated he would be compelled to reduce the force to the number allowed by ordinance until Council ordered an increase. He accordingly issued an order for the discharge of the "extras" who had been stationed as follows:

Lawrenceville—Lieut. Wm. H. McCormick, James Carville, G. W. Sellers, Henry Krusa and C. A. Gross.

Oakland—David Bailey and Samuel James.

Soho—J. B. O'Neill and Matthew Haddock.

Minersville—William A. Tyre and James McCarthy.

Eleventh Ward—Andrew Stone and Lawrence Lewis.

Eighth and Eleventh Wards—John Moore, John Keitz, E. L. Muldoon, and Michael Doyle.

Twenty-third Ward—Nicholas Delchanty.

Corner Men—Lawrence Cook, at the Elevator; John Glynn, corner of Penn and Ninth streets; Emil Berger, corner of Seventh avenue and Smithfield; Charles McGovern, croner of Fourth avenue and Smithfield street, and Wm. Fowler, Monongahela wharf.

Lamp Washers—Roger Jeffries, Henry Bernenger and Alexander Dalzell. Driver of the Black Maria, ——————

It will thus be seen that the police have been taken from some districts, in which they cannot justly be spared, and from whence daily demands are made for an increase rather than a decrease of the force. What action Councils will take remains to be seen.

LOCAL POLITICS.

The Press in the Convention.

Yesterday afternoon the reporters of the city press held a meeting at the Lincoln club rooms for the purpose of making arrangements for the reception of visiting members of the press at the forthcoming Soldiers' and Sailors' Convention.

A permanent organization was effected by electing W. C. Smythe chairman, and W. B. Horner secretary.

On motion, Messrs. P. F. Smith, C. F. Foster, W. B. Horner, John N. Neeb, C. E. Locke, Jas. Breen and E. M. O'Neill were appointed as an executive committee.

Arrangements were partly made for the proper accommodation of the reporters from abroad, and those of the city press, at the several conventions.

Some unimportant business was transacted, and the meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

North End District.

A mass meeting—very largely attended—was held in front of Born's tavern, Perrysville Road, North End District, last night. The meeting was called to order by Mr. Charles B. Welty, after which the following officers were chosen:

President—John O. S. Golden.

Vice Presidents—Adam Fornaff, C. B. Welty, George W. Day, B. Elliott, John Morrow, Jacob Pfordte, Joseph Mahoney, Samuel Watson, Geo. Kimberlin, James Hoag, Hugh S. Fleming, Thomas Purcey.

Secretaries—Joseph McNaugher, Phillip Miller, Joseph Hewitt, R. L. Thomas, W. H. McClinton.

Addresses were made by Hon. James L. Graham and H. A. Collier, Esq., which were received with every manifestation of enthusiasm. The meeting was one of the best ever held in that section.

The Juniors.

Last evening there was a meeting of the Pittsburgh Central Junior Grant, Wilson and Hartranft Club at the Second ward school house. In the absence of the President, Vice President C. W. Houston took the chair. The first business in order was the election of a First and Second Lieutenant and Orderly Sergeant. The election resulted as follows:

First Lieutenant—J. G. Canfield.
Second Lieutenant—Aaron West.
Orderly Sergeant—M. Ogden.

After the officers were elected a motion was [illegible] to appoint a Committee to purchase caps, [illegible] The President appointed [illegible] —— Livingstone, [illegible] and J. B. Canfield. [illegible] Funds reported [illegible] and expected to double it before the next meeting of the club. After voting thanks to Mr. Hazlup the meeting adjourned to meet on Saturday evening at 7 o'clock sharp.

C. W. H.

Second Ward, Allegheny.

The Republicans of the Second ward, Allegheny, held a meeting in the school house last evening, for the purpose of organizing for the campaign. There was a very large attendance of the voters of the ward, and the spirit manifested indicates that the Republicans in that banner section will give a good account of themselves during the campaign.

Mr. W. P. Price was called temporarily to the chair, and Mr. D. C. Hultz was chosen Secretary. After the object of the meeting had been stated and discussed, Hon. Alf. Slack, and Messrs. Wm. Chambers, Alex Gray, Robert Dilworth and David Michall were appointed a Committee on Organization. They presented a report of a constitution and by-laws for the government of the club, which after slight amendments was adopted. The Committee also nominated the following officers, who were unanimously elected:

President, W. P. Price.

Vice Presidents, James Hunter, W. W. Ackley, Wm. Murdoch, and James Wilson.

Recording Secretary, D. C. Hultz. Corresponding Secretary, Robert Dilworth. Treasurer, D. Macferron.

The following gentlemen were then appointed as a Committee on the Organization of the Marching club: Messrs. W. Graham, Isaac Rigby, John T. Brown, James Hunter, David Michall, Russell Miller, Col. John Glenn, David Ewing, Robert Collins, James Alexander, Wm. Rhodes, John Nelson, Captain James E. Crow, Captain John P. McHendry, Wm. H. Lockhart, Joseph Ashworth and William Chambers, Jr.

The meeting then adjourned until next Thursday evening, when the Marching Club will be organized. About seventy persons have already signified their intention of joining the Marching Club.

A meeting of the Sixth Ward Allegheny Grant, Wilson and Hartranft Club will be held to-morrow (Thursday) evening, at the school house. A full attendance is desired.

BIRMINGHAM COUNCIL.

Regular Monthly Meeting.

Last evening a regular meeting of Birmingham Council was held.

Present: Messrs. Duncan, Doyle, Schwarm, Ward, Conway, and Burgess Salisbury in the chair.

Minutes of the previous meeting read and approved.

The report of Finance committe showed a balance of $3475,10 remained in the treasury, September 3d, 1872. Report received and filed.

The street committee's report showed that they are doing their duty in regard to the streets, cleaning and repairing.

The report of the market master showed that he had collected during the last month the sum of $728,20.

The Weighmaster reported a collection of $63 50 during the last month.

During last month the Tax Collector paid into the borough Treasury the sum of $2,100.

The Street Commissioner reported that the street expenditures for the last month amounted to $544 99. Reports received and approved.

Mr. Doyle stated that bids had been handed in for the frescoing of the market house. He stated that the Council would have to decide to-night whether they would have the ceiling frescoed or nor.

On motion, it was decided to fresco the ceiling and walls, and leave the matter of selecting the patterns to the Building Committee.

Mr. Doyle, of the building Committee asked for instruction from the council as to heating the Market Hall. It was out of the question to heat it with stoves, so there remained only two ways, either by steam or hot air. The steam heating would cost about $5000, while hot air heating would cost between $2000 and $3000.

Mr. Schwarm moved that that matter be also referred to the building Committee with power to act. Carried.

Mr. Doyle then stated that the time is now soon at hand for the borough to settle up its accounts, preparatory to going into the city. Mr. Schwarm moved that a Committee of three be appointed to arrange the accounts Laid over to next meeting.

On motion the finance Committee was instructed to make arrangements with the livery stable men to settle their licenses of the last year and this year, which latter will only be for about nine months.

The estimate for a sewer from the Market-house down Twelfth street, as made out by the borough regulator, showed that the sewer would cost $1,935.45.

Mr. Ward presented a petition for a gas lamp at the head of Fourteenth street. He moved that a lamp be placed there. Carried.

The matter of furnishing the Market Hall was referred to the Building Committee, with power to act.

Mr. Doyle stated that the Mechanic's Hose Company requested to have the new Market Hall for opening it formally. On motion of Mr. Schwarm the matter was referred to the Market Committee, with power to act.

A number of bills were then read, and warrants ordered for the same.

The borough officers' salaries for the last month were also ordered to be paid. The sum of $400 was allowed the Street Commissioner for the coming month.

On motion, adjourned.

THE MAGINNISS WRIT.

The Respondent Declared an Habitual Drunkard.

The case of Mr. John Maginniss, of Wall's Station, was decided yesterday. It will be remembered that a writ de lunatico inquirendo was taken out against him, and Mr. David Reed appointed to take testimony in the case. Yesterday Mr. Reed filed his report, together with the finding of the jury, to the effect that the respondent Maginnis was an habitual drunkard and unfit to take care of his property.

The jury consisted of Messrs. J. C. Newmeyer, C. C. Montooth, John G. McConnell, James Evans, J. E. McKelvey and S. M. Raymond. Some twelve or fifteen witnesses were examined, all of whom testified that Mr. Maginniss was intemperate in his habits, and had been for some five years past. His son-in-law testified to the same state of facts, and during the course of his examination stated that Mr. McG. is now seventy-four years of age, and is possessed of the following property: A farm of two hundred and fifty-three acres in Patton township, the same reported as sold at six hundred dollars per acre; a farm of one thousand four hundred and sixty acres in Ford township, Illinois; a farm of six hundred and forty acres in Champagne county, Illinois, and some lots in the same county, embracing in the aggregate about three-fourths of an acre. Besides, the farms are well stocked, and it was estimated that the aggregate value of the property would amount to about five hundred thousand dollars.

Mr. Maginniss's farm at Wall's station has been condemned and sold for the use of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for their stock yards.

How to Decide.

Many ladies who have been importuned by sewing machine agents have become bewildered as to the relative merits of the different machines, and hence buy none of them. A good way to get out of this dilemma is to go at once to No. 178 Liberty street, and make a purchase of an American Buttonhole and Overseaming Machine. The merits of the American will be apparent to even the most inexperienced observer who will take the trouble to spend a few minutes in an examination of its simplicity of mechanism and the beauty of the work which is done upon it. Buy an American and you will will be satisfied.

The Fall Trade

Promises to be unusually brisk, and Wm. Fleming & Co., proprietors of the one price hat house, are already prepared for it with an immense and unusually fine stock.

No More Smokey Chimneys.

The Lothair Ventilator and chimney top is guaranteed to cure all smoking chimneys, call [illegible] Hawthorn & Co., No. 47 Federal street, Allegheny city, [illegible] and see it at [illegible] Allegheny County.

POLICE PARAGRAPHS.

Brief Mention of Criminalities.

MAYOR CALLOW had nine common cases yesterday.

DAVID LEWIS was sent to the Work House yesterday morning, for thirty days, by Mayor Callow, for disorderly conduct.

THOMAS ROWAN was committed yesterday to await trial on a charge of personating a United States detective. The defendant was committed from Wilkesbarre.

LAWRENCE MCCLUSKY alleged that Wm. Miller assaulted him and knocked him down, and then added insult to injury by kicking him. Miller is held for a hearing.

THOMAS TRAINOR made an information yesterday before Alderman Strain, charging Gabriel Simson with assault and battery in knocking him down and kicking him twice in the jaw. Gabriel was arrested and detained for a hearing.

MRS. BARBARA MILLER alleges that she has been married but one month, and now her husband, Christian Miller, has cruelly deserted her. Justice Barker, of South Pittsburgh, issued a warrant for the arrest of Miller.

LEWIS FISHER made an information before Alderman Armstrong, of Allegheny, yesterday morning, charging John Wicht with assault and battery. He alleges that the defendant hit him with pieces of brick and stone, and also kicked him. A warrant was issued.

BRIDGET DILLON yesterday made an information before Alderman Strain charging her son, Thomas Dillon, with assault and battery. She alleges that he became offended at her by some trifle, and struck her in the eye with a shoe brush. The defendant was arrested and held for a hearing.

ELLEN DONNELLY, white, and Eliza Jackson, Mary J. Robinson and Sarah Buck, colored, were arrested in a disorderly house on Spring Garden Run. They were before Mayor Callow yesterday morning and fined ten dollars and costs each. Ellen paid her fine and the rest were sent to jail for ten days.

PATRICK GEAGAN made an information yesterday before Alderman McMasters, charging Patrick Carter and wife with assault and battery, and shortly afterward Carter made a similar charge against Geagan and his wife. It seems that the plaintiffs in the two cases got into a fight in which the whole family participated, and hence the susts.

THIRD WARD PUBLIC SCHOOL.

Completion of the New Building—Formal Opening.

The new school building on the corner of Chestnut and Green streets, Third ward, Allegheny, has been completed, and was formally opened on Monday. During the day a large number of citizens of the ward visited it, and all expressed themselves perfectly satisfied with its arrangement. It is probably one of the best arranged school buildings in the country, and is admirably suited for the purpose for which it is intended. The edifice is 63x92 feet, three story brick, with stone facing and cornices. The first story contains the gymnasium, and a large apartment which will be used for election purposes by the citizens of the precinct. The second story is divided into large school rooms with cloak rooms attached. In the third story is a large hall, together with the principal's room. The arrangement of the building is very complete, the halls and stairs being wide and the ventilation perfect. The entire building will be heated by George W. Blake's most approved apparatus, the pipes of which being bronzed give an appearance of neatness and finish rarely attained. The walls in the halls and along the stairs are wainscoated with walnut and yellow pine. No expense or labor has been spared, and we congratulate the Board of Directors upon having one of the best buildings adapted to school purposes in the country. Messrs. S. Hastings & Co., were the contractors and they may well feel proud of the building.

Mr. George Laing, of the well-known Liberty street firm of Laing & McKallip, has returned from Western New York, where he spent several weeks in visiting some relatives. He reports the political situation in that section as looking very bright for the Republican ticket.

KILLED BY THE CARS.

Fatal Accident at Verona—A Man Run Over by a Train—Another Man Killed at Sharon.

Yesterday morning a man named Owen Murphy was killed at Verona Station by being run over by a train of cars. He was engaged at Armstrong & Co.'s coal works, and got on a train on a side track to come from the coal works to the village. On the way down he was jolted off, and the whole train passed over his body, cutting him in two. The remains were gathered up, and an inquest held by Justice Wabbell, when a verdict of accidental death was rendered. The victim was a man of middle age and was unmarried.

A man named Patsy Harrington, while attempting to get on a train on a side track at Sharon, Lawrence county, yesterday, on the Fort Wayne Road, missed his footing and fell under the wheels, by which he was killed, and his body horribly mangled. An inquest was held and a verdict renderd in accordance with the facts.

Newell Institute.

Young Ladies' Division—No. 255 Penn ave.
Boys' Division—No. 267 Penn avenue.

This well-known and thoroughly successful school will re-open on the 9th of September. Mr. Newell will be in the office, No. 255, from 9 till 2 o'clock daily to consult with parents and to receive applications for the next term. Full information regarding the course of study, &c., in the catalogue, to be had in the Book and Music stores of both cities. The Principal employs the best teachers, and guarantees thorough and efficient work.

J. R. NEWELL, Prin.

During a late trial in the Criminal Court in this city, a very pretty young woman who had brought suit against her husband for her maintenance, testified at the hearing that the only article she had in her house that this cruel man had bought her was a Mardorf & Co. broom, and that was purchased three years ago. The Court not understanding her, put the question direct to her, "Do you say that you have had this broom for three years?" "Yes, sir." "Madame, what kind of a house do you keep?" "I keep a clean house, sir, and any good housekeeper can wear a broom of this make five times as long as many other brooms in the market." Ask your grocer for them and take none other. Mardorf & Co. is the brand.

The best place to get hard burned sewer and water pipe, flue lining, chimney tops, fire tile and fire brick, and everything else in the terra cotta line, is at Reno's, 41 Federal street, Allegheny.

BREVITIES.

....Penn avenue is still used as a race course during the evenings.

....A wigwam is soon to be erected at the corner of North avenue and Middle street, Allegheny, by the Republicans of the Third ward.

....The Fourth ward, Allegheny, Grant and Wilson Club will parade next Friday night. The club now numbers one hundred and fifty-six members.

....Reporters feel particularly grateful to Controller McGowan for kindly furnishing blanks on which to copy his report, thus relieving them of a great deal of work.

....At the next meeting of Allegheny Councils, the matter of improving the City Hall will be brought up, and the time for commencing the proposed improvements will be declared.

....The Board of Poor Directors of Allegheny held a meeting last evening, when the report of the Superintendent was read, showing that the home contains 110 inmates at the present time, 31 of whom are insane.

....A collision occurred on Penn avenue late on Monday nigh, which resulted in the serious injury of a lady and gentleman who were in one of the buggies. The two buggies collided at East Liberty, and both the vehicles were completely demolished.

....A meeeting of the Wilkins township Grant, Wilson and Hartranft Club was held on Monday night, and the following officers of the Marching Club elected: Captain, James S. Woodwell; First Lieutenant, John C. Paul; Second Lieutenant, Wilder F. McKelvey; Orderly Sergeant, Henry Swift.

....Yesterday morning Mayor Callow received a dispatch from the Chief of Police of New Castle, asking to have two brothers named Mullen arrested for stealing a sewing machine which they had in their possession. Two officers were sent to the train, and the men were arrested and placed in the lock-up to await the arrival of an officer from New Castle.

....A very large and fashionable wedding took place yesterday morning at St. Paul's Cathedral, on Grant street. The principals in the affair were Mr. T. S. O'Neill, a livery stable keeper of Grant street, and Miss Sarah, daughter of Lewis Glusenkamp, of the firm of C. West & Co. Father Hickey, assisted by Father Grace, performed the ceremony, which was concluded by a grand Nuptial High Mass.

....John Johnson, who was cut by his wife in Allegheny on Monday night, a report of which we gave in yesterday's issue, was allowed to go home after the arrest of his wife, with a promise that he would appear at the Mayor's office on the next morning. Yesterday morning, however, when an officer went in search of him, he could not be found, and it is supposed that he left in order to avoid appearing against his wife. While in the lock-up on Monday night he denied that his wife had done the cutting, but would not tell who the guilty party was.

Methodist Conference.

SEPTEMBER 4, 1872.

The Pittsburgh annual Conference of the Methodist Church convenes at Beaver Falls today, and will continue in session about one week. Each pastorate being entitled to a representative, there will be an equal number of ministers. Rev. H. Palmer, of Allegheny, has filled the executive office during the past year. The GAZETTE will publish the proceedings as the session progresses. An interesting as well as busy time is expected. The doors are always open, and visitors are made welcome. Visitors as well as members of conference may have an opportunity to see the celestials employed at the cutlery. This though a side issue, will be a matter of interest to those who have never seen the "Chinee man." More anon.

THE STOMACH AS AN AVENGER.

For every br[illegible] of the laws of health that we commit the stomach inflicts a penalty. Headache, biliousness, nervous tremors, constipation, colic, heartburn, nausea, debility and mental depression are only a few of the punishments which an outraged stomach is capable of imposing upon us. To bring back this vengeful organ to its normal condition—to placate, invigorate and regulate it—there is nothing in the wide world so potent as a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Under the operation of this beneficent vegetable corrective and tonic the gastric juice becomes a pure and healthful solvent and resumes its natural flow. The effect is the same on the biliary secretion, and in fact on all the fluids of the body, and the final result is the removal of every painful or unpleasant symptom occasioned by the rebellious action of the digestive organ.
